Could face court action

Plant is blamed for drain odor

A Romulus chemical plant could face court action by the state Attorney General's Office if it fails to comply with recommendations to stop foul-smelling odors coming from the Trouton Drain.

At least a dozen officials, representing that many governmental agencies and offices were in attendance at City Hall to hear area residents tell their story of neglect, bureaucratic red tape, buckpassing and frustration over their efforts to have the Trouton Drain odor problem resolved over the past six years.

For over three hours, officials heard testimony from angry residents and city leaders concerning the polluted condition of the drain, located in the northeast section of Romulus.

The drain, which runs in an easterly direction, parallel to Beverly Road, abuts several residential properties, and by all accounts, often contains a foul-smelling, black liquid, which makes life most unpleasant for its neighbors.

According to a task force report, conducted by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in 1978, and released at last night's meeting, the major source of the pollution is from contaminated groundwater entering the drain from a nearby chemical reprocessing plant called Chemical Recovery Systems.

A spokesman for the company, which purchased the property in 1971, claims it inherited the problem from the previous owners, and in fact, have already spent nearly $250,000 to clean up the land.

The company said it has submitted another plan to further clean up the area, which would cost another $80,000. However, both the DNR and city officials claim that isn't enough, and are demanding the company do more. In fact, a spokesman suggests the company could spend ten times that amount to completely eradicate the problem.

Chemical Recovery, claiming financial hardship, says it can't afford that kind of cleanup effort, and is applying for a pollution control loan through the Michigan Job Improvement Authority. A similar application last year was submitted too late to qualify, the company said.

City Council member Jimmie Raspberry, himself a resident of the area, noted that the $2 million company is currently expanding its facilities by moving its Ohio operation to Romulus. He commented this action doesn't indicate financial hardship to him.

Meanwhile, as temperatures rise, so does the stench and the tempers of nearby residents.

As one resident put it, "The burden is upon you state and county officials to demonstrate that government really works. If something doesn't happen because of this meeting, my friends and neighbors will just say, 'I told you so.'"

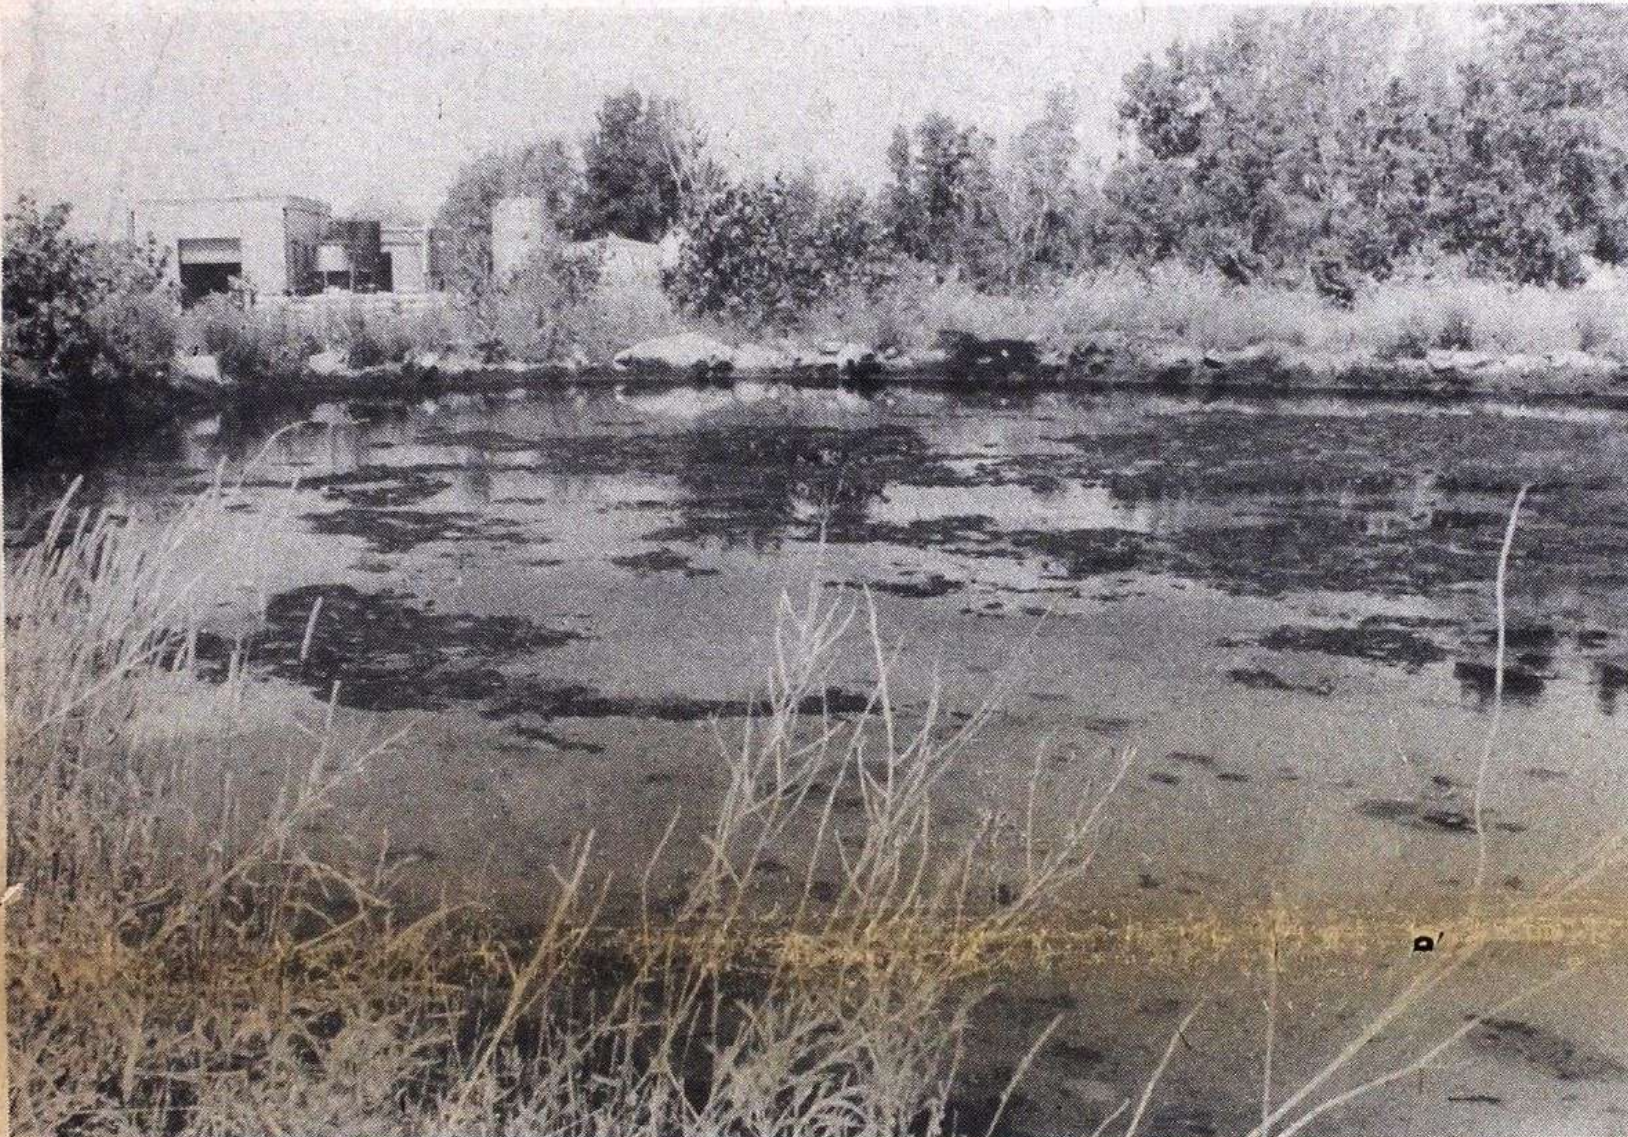

In response to that comment and questioning from State Sen. William Faust's aide, David Calahan, the DNR task force chairman Thomas Leep promised to report back with a recommendation within 30 days.

Leep was seconded by Roger Schwartz from the State Attorney General's Office, who said if the company does not agree to follow the DNR's recommendations, his office is prepared to go to court to force compliance.

Said Schwartz, "If we go into court, it will be with both guns blazing. We will then ask for a $800,000 cleanup job, rather than only $80,000. If (the court action) will not be a half-hearted effort. We are ready to go to the circuit court if necessary."

At the end of the three-hour meeting, many of the 70 citizens present were still skeptical. Many had attended similar meetings in the past, with little to show for it.

Anyone with a complaint about the Trouton Drain, or any other Wayne County drain in Romulus, is urged to call the Wayne County Health Department at 284-0664 to lodge complaints.

Lagoon implicated in drain odor

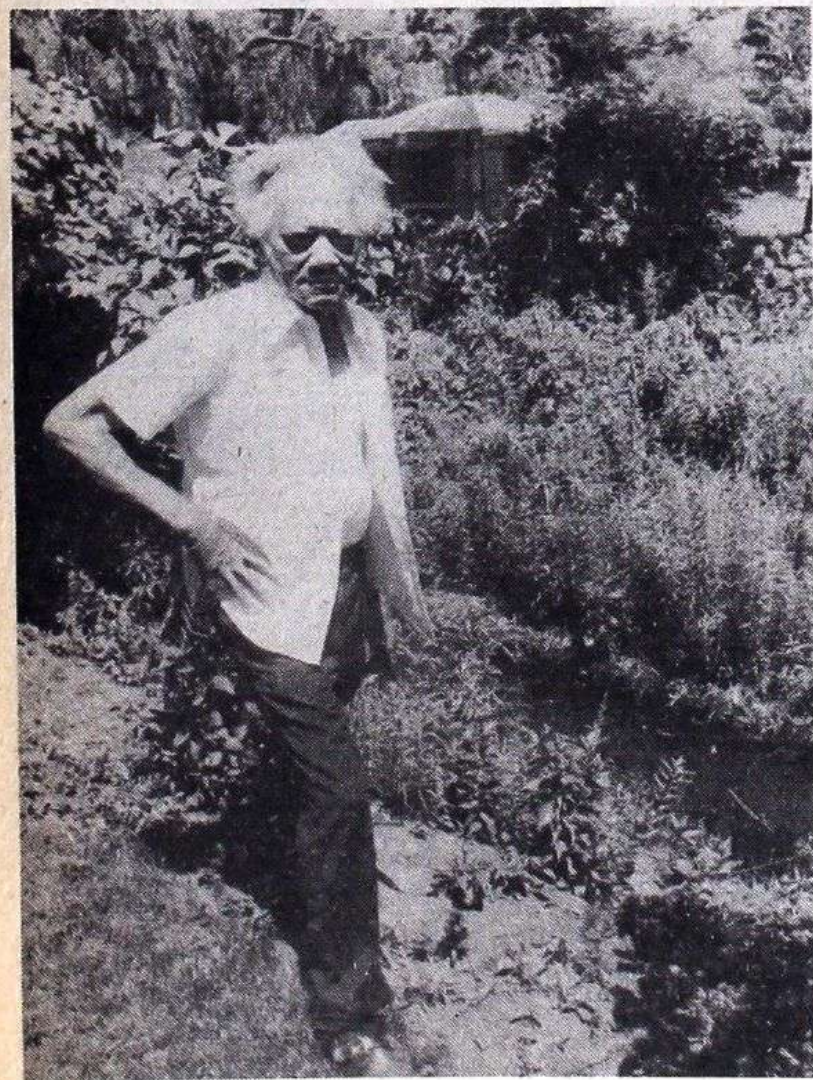

Oilly scum on the surface of water in one of the lagoons southeast of the Chemical Recovery Systems in Romulus is being blamed for obnoxious odors emanating from Trouton Drain. State and local officials and area residents believe liquid chemical residues from plant operations stored in the lagoon filter through soil 10 to 15 feet into Trouton Drain, undergoes chemical reaction when the sun goes down and causes objectionable strong odors which plague a wide area. One of the remaining two lagoons has been filled in with dirt and neighbors want the chemical plant to do the same with the other two. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

No smell before then

Problems began with new plant

Blames nearby plant

A Romulus resident who has lived next door to the Trouton Drain for 33 years revealed the storm drain was never a problem until a chemical recovery plant began operations in the immediate area.

Charles Alrid moved to 36020 Joan with his family back in 1946. He recalls that three previous business tenants of the property now occupied by Chemical Recovery Systems Co. operated for several years, each without causing problems with Trouton Drain.

Alrid said the location at 36345 Van Born Rd. was occupied by a coal yard when he first moved to the area. A lumber yard and a paint and oil company were the next businesses to locate on the site, each for three to four years, again with area residents experiencing no problems with Trouton Drain, he said.

But, all that changed with the coming of the chemical recovery firm some 10 years ago. About six to eight years ago, he explained, he and his neighbors began noticing odors from the open storm drain.

Alrid said complaints of residents in the area prompted the chemical company to install lagoons to store waste liquids generated by the firm's operations.

"The lagoons didn't help anything," Alrid said. "In fact, they seemed to make matters worse."

An on-site inspection Thursday by Romulus Public Library staff at 11121 Wayne Road, Romulus, Mich. 48174

sday afternoon of Trouton Drain from Joan to the lagoon, some 1,000 feet north, by the Enterprise failed to detect any odors whatsoever. However, a check with Alrid Friday disclosed that odors became so strong Thursday night and early Friday morning that he could not sleep.

His statements supported assertions made by Romulus Councilman Jimmie Raspberry.

"There seldom seems to be any smell during the daytime. They usually are the worst in the evening and during the night," he explained.

Raspberry said he was told by those who had inspected the area, including technical personnel from the state Department of Natural Resources, that sunlight played a prominent role in keeping odors to a minimum and that the onset of nightfall brought a complete turnabout.

"Before we had troubles with Trouton Drain, it was full of fish, muskrats and other animals," Alrid declared. "In the winter, it was used as a skating pond," he added.

Now, all of that has changed. Area residents want something done about ridding their neighborhood of the obnoxious odors that plague them and their families.

Whoever is responsible for accomplishing what has over the years appeared to be impossible - ridding Trouton Drain of its odors - will automatically become a hero to inhabitants of the area.

Governor asks aid

Romulus included in disaster plea

Gov. William G. Milliken has requested that the Small Business Administration (SBA) declare Wayne County a disaster area due to damages caused by severe thunderstorms and flooding July 11.

"I am seeking a disaster declaration for Wayne County and particularly for the cities of Taylor, Dearborn Heights, Allen Park and Romulus," Milliken said. "Preliminary estimates indicate more than 10,000 residences have suffered flood damage from the recent storm."

Milliken said a disaster designation would make Wayne County homeowners, renters and businesses eligible for low-interest disaster recovery loans and economic injury disaster loans from the SBA.

A breakdown of damage estimates follows: Allen Park, 500 homes damaged; Dearborn Heights, 1,200 homes damaged; Romulus, 600 homes damaged; Taylor, 8,300 homes and 200 businesses damaged.

Suspects grilled

Arson is blamed in house blaze

Arson has been blamed for a fire which gutted a single-story Romulus residence early last Wednesday and police believe area residents resentful of a home proposed for handicapped children behind the damaged home may be responsible.

Police said no one was in the house at the time of the fire, but that the owner's dog lost its life. The Romulus Fire Department was called to the scene at 12:34 a.m., but the residence suffered heavy damage before the blaze was extinguished.

According to police, Clyde Miller, who owns the house, and two foster children had gone to the movies. The state fire marshal determined that someone had piled a stack of bedding and clothes in the middle of a bedroom floor and ignited it.

Police said an eyewitness identified two men who set the dwelling on fire and that the two suspects "flunked" a lie detector test to which they volunteered. Both men were released pending investigation of the credibility of the witness.

All three men are local residents and are thought by police to know something about the house fire. They are all acquainted with each other, police said.

Investigators theorized that a proposal to build a home for handicapped children at the rear of Miller's house was strongly opposed by some neighbors, one or more of whom may have set the blaze.

Investigation into the fire is continuing, police said.

Of overextending on credit

Basic knowledge, new law offers remedies

In a society where, increasingly, the consumer is relying on credit, it's easy to get in over one's head.

But that could be remedied with a basic knowledge of credit and new legislation designed to help the consumer, according to Judy Thelan, consumer education specialist for the State Employees Credit Union (SECU).

Thelan recently authored a training booklet for teachers titled "Credit: Using Other People's Money," designed to be used in consumer classes. Thelan serves as a consultant to the Michigan Consumer Education Center located on the campus of Eastern Michigan University.

The booklet is a result of Thelan's visits to classes as a consumer specialist for the SECU. She discovered that teachers were learning as much as the students.

The training booklet examines, among other subjects, credit-worthiness, sources of credit, credit cards and what to do when you can't pay your bills.

Thelan explains that the two basic questions a consumer must ask is how much credit he or she can afford and whether or not to use credit.

"There is no easy answer. The basic thing is to do a budget. That sounds so boring but it's very basic. What can you afford? Then decide yourself."

"One of the key points I make in the booklet is that lenders are interested in knowing whether or not you can repay the loan, not whether it's good for you financially. The lender is not going to pass judgement on whether something is a worthy purpose," Thelan said.

When an individual decides to borrow, Thelan explains the lender looks at the "three Cs" on a credit application. Those include character, your willingness to repay; capacity, whether you have enough money to repay and collateral, what you have that the lender could take back.

While examining the "three Cs," Thelan said, a lender will examine such things as consumer's history of bill payment, how many other loans are outstanding, how long a consumer has been on a job and how steady his or her income is.

For collateral—"Usually, if you are borrowing for something tangible, like a car or furniture, the lender will require that it be used as security both to encourage you to make the payments as agreed and to assure that the lender will get back at least part of the money loaned to you."

In the section examining credit cards, Thelan warns that credit cards are not for the impulse buyer.

"For impulsive spenders, for people who do not plan purchases carefully, for people who have difficulty stretching their paycheck from payday to payday, credit cards are not recommended," she advised. She added that the cards are a benefit if a consumer budgets carefully and pays off the balance each month to avoid interest charges.

Recent legislation has improved the credit picture for consumers, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act and the Equal Credit Opportunity Act.

"There are all kinds of rules in the Fair Credit Reporting Act that establish your right to see your credit rating, if you want to. If you are denied a loan because of information that was provided by a credit bureau, then you have a right to see your credit rating free within 30 days after the loan application to determine if the information is false or whether someone else's credit history is in there," Thelan said.

She added that, if a consumer has had a dispute over a bill, a short note explaining why the bill has not been paid may be included in a consumer's credit report.

"Of course you also have a right to see your credit history anytime you want to if you're willing to pay the nominal fee of usually $3 to $5 that most credit bureaus charge."

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act provides that it's illegal "to discriminate on the basis of age, race, religion, sex, marital status, national origin, color, receipt of public assistance payments or because you filed a complaint against the lender."

Thelan said the act states that all people must be treated equally based on credit worthiness.

"A lender can't ask a woman, specifically, whether or not she's going to have children, whether she's pregnant or on birth control. They can ask how many dependents you have, or if your income is likely to continue. But if they do ask those questions, they have to ask them of all applicants, not just women," she explained.

In the past, women found it difficult to get credit on an equal basis. She said this act is particularly important for women although some still are not aware of it. The act also specifies that women are entitled to have a credit history in their own name.

There are several symptoms that indicate a consumer is in trouble with credit, Thelan said. "One of the obvious symptom is, do you find that, some months you have to stall creditors or send a payment in later because there isn't enough money in your checking account to pay it on time? Do you find yourself choosing which creditor you're not going to pay this month because there's not enough money there? Are you saving anything?"

Thelan also warned about two-income families, an increasingly common occurrence.

"Two-income families should be careful about the amount of credit they use. If they're using both incomes to maintain the amount of credit they're using, they have to be careful that both have jobs that aren't likely to be hit by recession or layoffs. It's also more important to make decisions about whether one of them wants to stay and finish a degree or take care of children.

"Once they get themselves tied into payments based on both their incomes, they find that they can't do some of the things they'd like to do because they can't manage monthly payments on only one income."

The training booklet is available at the Michigan Consumer Education Center at EMU for a nominal charge.

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)
By ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

In the past, the death of a spouse required the surviving partner to undergo lengthy legal proceedings before inheriting the goods and property once shared as husband and wife. Under the Revised Probate Code which took effect July 1, the widowed spouse is guaranteed an increased share of the estate, as well as additional allowances and benefits. Also, the administration of the modest estate has been simplified.

The new code assures a surviving spouse priority and creditor-free right to the property of the deceased, upon disclosure of the net assets in the estate and proof of payment of funeral expenses. The new code also stipulates that the surviving spouse is entitled to:

- The right to remain in the dwelling of the deceased up to a year after their death, or until the surviving spouse's share is assigned. (During that time, the surviving spouse is not charged with rent, taxes or major payments.)
- A property allowance of $3,500 in furnishings and personals of the deceased (over the amounts owed on the property.)

- A homestead allowance of $10,000.
- A reasonable family allowance for care and support during the probate, up to one year after death.
- The right of use of any real property in the sole name of the deceased, with compliance to the above rights.

For the husband or wife whose mate died without a will the revised code changes previously rigid Michigan laws, which sometimes granted assets to unselected beneficiaries. The new code assures simplified probate proceedings and increased benefits.

Under the new code, the surviving spouse is granted the entire estate of their mate who died without a will providing he or she was not survived by children, grandchildren, or a parent.

If the deceased mate is survived by a parent, children, or grandchildren, the surviving spouse is entitled to inherit the first $60,000 of the assets in the estate, and would share the remainder with the parent(s), children, or grandchildren.

If the surviving children or grandchildren are not related to the surviving spouse, (as in the case of children of a prior marriage), the spouse is only entitled to one-half of the estate, while the surviving children collectively share the remaining half.

The intent of the revised code is to provide security for a surviving spouse with efficient and simplified probate during a difficult period in their life.

Susan Mihalko, programs director, said games and arts and crafts will be available each day, free movies once each week and special events with prizes.

In addition to pie and watermelon eating contests, the Salvation Army summer program will offer the following: kick-ball, pocket billiards, air hockey, volleyball, softball, dodgeball, arts and crafts, bumper pool, basketball, painting, tournaments, field trips, ping pong and puppet shows.

For additional information, call Mrs. Mihalko at 282-0930.

Big block grant goes to Romulus

Romulus came out with the "lion's share" of $371,219 of the federal block grant monies recently allocated by the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Advisory Council at a meeting hosted by Mayor William M. Oakley in the Romulus City Council chambers.

The group of 32 Wayne County communities was formed to collectively seek federal monies and thereby increase its chances in the highly-competitive application process.

Last year, the block grant council dispensed approximately $5.4 million among its members, following strict HUD guidelines regarding income levels, minority populations, etc.

Last year, Romulus' share was $289,000, the largest of any member community. At last week's meeting, Romulus garnered $371,219, a 30 percent increase over last year, and again the recipient of the largest share in grants.

The money has been earmarked for a fifth Romulus fire station, a loans and grants housing rehabilitation program administered by the Romulus Help Center, site development improvements and connected with the new senior citizen housing complex, and the remainder designated to a special needs category.

Mayor Oakley, who was elected to the advisory council last year, said he was "very pleased" with Romulus' share, in that "all the funded projects are of vital importance to the city and its future."

"I am particularly pleased with this year's allocation, because it represents a job well done by Romulus, which is carefully screened by the Wayne County Council to see how well the funded programs are administered."

Treasurer's race a sizzler

27 File for primary; 19 seek council berth

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

With the deadline for filing officially over at 4 p.m. last Saturday, a total of 27 candidates will seek nominations in the Sept. 10 Romulus primary election.

Three men are running for the two nominations for the office of mayor — incumbent Mayor William M. Oakley, Mel Morgan and Harry Nelson.

Oakley's stiffest competition is expected to come from Morgan, a well-known local businessman and property developer who has stated he will make a concerted effort to unseat the present mayor.

Nelson, a supervisor for the Ford Motor Co., should come in a distant third in the battle for the mayoral nomination.

With only two candidates filing for the office of city clerk, both men automatically will be assured a place on the primary ballot in September.

Filing for clerk are incumbent Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, eight-year veteran in that office, and Ted Kubiak, former director of the ordinance department, who was fired by former Mayor James C. Stewart.

The race for treasurer shapes up to be the most exciting one on the primary ballot, with three well-known candidates fighting for the two nominations.

Incumbent Treasurer Helen Gallien is being opposed by veteran council member Beverly McAnally and former Treasurer John Lewkowicz, who lost out to Gallien in the last city election two years ago.

The treasurer's contest is too close to call, with any two of the three-person field having almost an equal chance to emerge victorious.

The race for the seven available council seats is being waged by a large field of 19 candidates, including six incumbents. As mentioned, McAnally is seeking the treasurer's berth.

Incumbent council members seeking re-election are: Council President Mary Ann Banks, Ray Cantrell, Junior Block, Gerry Canejo, Mary Carter and Jimmie Raspberry.

The remaining 13 candidates for council nominations are: Ed Rush, prominent city florist who successfully sued the city over an alleged closed council session; Ed Fall, former director of the city building department who was fired several months ago by Mayor Oakley; Barry Baumann, unsuccessful council candidate two years ago; Charles Hazen, former city industrial coordinator eased out by council under former Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael; Wayne Avery, current president of the Romulus school board; Edmund Bizek, former councilman; Richard Campbell, active booster of We the People; Ed Thomas Jr.; Shirley M. Helms; Charles J. Dick; Lowell E. Giles; Richard K. Yermanian; and Robert Knight, previously unsuccessful council candidate.

Some of the incumbent council members could be knocked out of the running by such name candidates as Rush, Fall, Hazen, Avery, Bizek and Campbell.

In releasing the names of those candidates who had filed officially as of the 4 p.m. deadline Saturday, Clerk Folmar commented, "The coming primary election in Romulus will see a host of individuals who believe enough in their community to have taken the time to file for office in their efforts to improve the city of Romulus."

"I pray that a high percentage of the registered voters of this city will come out on election day to vote for the candidates of their choice."

Romulus sidewalk sale Aug. 17, 18

The Romulus Downtown Business District Association, comprised of the retail merchants along Goddard Road, between Five Points and Wayne Road, will hold its annual "Downtown Sidewalk Days", Friday and Saturday, Aug. 17 - 18, 1979.

This year's sale promises to be bigger and better than ever, according to Lou Blitz, owner of Romulus Auto Parts, and chairman of this year's auxiliary sale. Besides great savings offered by the permanent merchants, the association is offering space to individuals who would like to sell art work, home-made items, handicrafts, antiques, etc.

The sale will begin at 9 a.m. on Friday and end Saturday night, when Goddard Road will be closed to vehicular traffic, allowing shoppers to eat hot dogs, drink pop and square dance until midnight. For more details, Blitz can be called at 941-1727.

City realtor for 50 years dies at 91

George E. Jones, who owned and operated the Jones Real Estate at Beverly and Wayne roads in Romulus for more than a half century, died recently in Ford Hospital in Detroit. He was 91 years old.

Mr. Jones also operated and owned Jones Real Estate and the Jones Employment office at 4116 Beaubien in Detroit for more than 60 years, according to his son, George W. Jones Jr. of Detroit.

His son said his father's two businesses in Detroit were the oldest in the state of Michigan.

Born in Bonwell, S.C., Mr. Jones came to Detroit at about the age of 15 years. He was reared by F. F. Ingraham, a millionaire druggist from Grosse Ile, his son said.

Funeral services were held last week (Tuesday) at the Plymouth United Church of Christ in Detroit, with the Rev. Nicholas Hood, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Also surviving are his wife, Willie Ruth, Detroit; a brother, Miller Jones of South Carolina; a sister, Mrs. Mary Cohns of Florida; four grandchildren; and one step grandson.

Rotarians hold barbeque

Barbequed chicken was the main staple last Saturday during the Romulus Rotary Club's annual chicken barbeque outing held at Kennedy Park at Five Points. Over 1,000 chickens were consumed one half at a time, along with cole slaw, baked beans, potato chips, hot rolls and

Is recession starting?

Building starts decline in Canton Township

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Now that Canton Township has a cadre, if not an army, of building inspectors, there appears to be a sharp decline in building activity.

Housing starts are down by more than 40 percent for the first half of 1979, compared to 1978 at this time, according to township building department records.

Last June the township had issued 810 building permits for single family homes, compared to this June, which shows 495 building permits issued.

No sooner were township officials in the throes of a building boom trying to establish a complaint department to handle rising homeowners' complaints, than the boom took a backslide.

"We just now got ourselves caught up on the complaints on file. Things for the first time have calmed down," said Supervisor Noel Culbert.

Culbert attributes much of the drop in building activities to the gloomy predictions being made for the economy.

"But in Canton there's also us being tough on builders that may be part of the reason for them (builders) slowing down. And that's not all bad either," Culbert said.

"They fear us," he said.

With a slow down in construction it could be conducive to building homes of better quality, he noted.

Also welcoming the slower pace in development is Canton's chief building inspector, Aaron Machnik.

"This allows my department time to finish catching up with temporary occupancy permits we haven't gotten to yet," he said.

Former building chief Charley Thompson said he personally cannot remember a slow down such as this in Canton, with the exception, however, of pre-building boom years.

"I was with the department since 1972, and I can't remember ever having a decrease in the permits issued. It always steadily rose," Thompson said.

Last year there were 1,577 single family building permits issued, a record setting figure.

For Canton's building department to "break even," said Culbert there must be at least 1,000 to 1,100 building permits issued annually. If the year's second half continues anything like its first half, the township's department will barely do that.

That's bad in a way. The bad thing for the building department is that we're now in contract negotiations, and I've been frank with them about possible layoffs," Culbert said.

Both Machnik and Culbert said that if the building boom's backslide is only temporary, perhaps only being a reflection of slow summer months, layoffs will be unnecessary.

"But it's something we can't totally rule out either," Culbert added. He expects building to pick up in about six months.

Abe Green, chairman of the board of directors of Republic Building and Development Inc., isn't so sure.

"Even though summer months traditionally are slow, we are at half of what we were last year at this time," Green said.

The slow down is not confined to Canton, but is being felt throughout the tri-county area, according to his company's sales records.

Interestingly enough, he said, Canton was "stronger" in sales than most other communities.

"No question about it, though, everyone in the industry is feeling it. The buyer is confused. High interest rates scare him."

"But most of all the media being the prophets of doom have done the most scaring. It's scaring everyone away."

He said if predictions prove accurate and the economy is turning into a recession, then the American public should not expect to see an upswing for about two years.

"That's the way it has always happened. If it really gets rough, it takes a shorter amount of time to fall into a recession, but a lot longer to come out of it," Green explained.

In the ensuing months after Labor Day, Green said he could better predict the future for the building industry.

"You come see me then. Then I'll give you the sad story. Maybe if we hope . . . the good news."

County seeks $22 million tax anticipation note OK

Financially, beleaguered Wayne County, confronted with an almost immediate cash-flow problem, will try to borrow up to $22 million with permission necessary from the State Municipal Finance Commission.

The County Board of Commissioners has decided on the request to borrow after considering a report from the County Board of Auditors, projecting a possible $21.6 million deficit by end of the current fiscal-Nov. 30.

The Michigan Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) is the state body governing expenditures of subordinate governmental authorities throughout the state, including counties, cities, townships and villages.

Collateral for the proposed borrow would be anticipation of tax collections beginning Dec. 1. In the last fiscal year the MFC permitted only minor account transfers and other minimal budget changes without its approval.

During the same period the Board of Commissioners had to settle a labor relations contract providing wage increases for members of its largest employee union, and was forced by court order to maintain employees it would have otherwise laid off to curtail expenses.

Those problems helped offset a $3.5 million mandatory savings program the Board ordered from departments, along with the elimination of nearly 200 job slots since April 1. Although few employees except CETA personnel actually were dismissed, the job eliminations saved almost $3 million more.

Nevertheless, the Auditors' report forecast a deficit beginning with an estimated $1 million cash shortage by Aug. 31. The cash need, according to the report, will rise to $1.6 million by the end of September, $13 million by the end of October, and $21.6 million by Nov. 30.

In the report, the auditors stress that their projection is based on "consistent past practices" covering county obligations and expenditures and does not reflect any attempt to establish payment priorities which could adjust the cash-flow pattern.

Also, the auditors said credit of $1 million is given the county, allowed by the State Department of Social Services, for child care services for the period Oct. 1, 1978, through Sept. 30, 1979.

The auditors also emphasized that their projection does not anticipate any state aid, for such as sale of the Walter P. Reuther Extended Care Facility or reimbursement for interim operation of the facility.

If pending legislation now in a conference committee is approved, those terms would provide the county $9.5 million. The report also

Governor stresses stand on county re-organization

Gov. William Milliken has said he will not sign any legislation providing new or added financial assistance for Wayne County until the legislature approves a proposal which will allow reform of the county government structure.

"My position has been clean on this point from the very beginning," the Governor said July 12. "At a time when the state is having great difficulty meeting its existing commitments in such vital areas as human services, it would be highly irresponsible to be granting additional new funds to Wayne County unless that assistance is coupled with legislation allowing Wayne County voters to vote to establish a more accountable form of government."

"Wayne County has a larger budget, influences more public services and contains more citizens than many states. It also has one of the most archaic forms of government in the country and it is desperately in need of reform."

"If we provide new money to the county without at the same time helping to bring about that reform, then we are in great danger of wasting that money."

"Until an acceptable bill reaches my desk, I will not approve new financial assistance for the county."

Metroparks offer summer canoe use

Summer is one of the most beautiful seasons in which to enjoy a canoe trip along the Huron River in southeastern Michigan.

One of the most popular routes begins on the Huron River southwest of Pontiac, through Milford, Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark, the Hamburg area, Hudson Mills and Delhi metroparks northwest of Ann Arbor, southeast to Ann Arbor and on to Belleville and Lake Erie.

There are several Huron-Clinton overnight campsites available by advance permit. Charges are $1 per canoe up to five—$5 maximum. Permits are available by contacting the park offices at Kensington Metropark (685-1561), Hudson Mills Metropark (426-8211) or Lower Huron Metropark (697-9181).

Canoe rental service is available at Delhi Metropark northwest of Ann Arbor daily in the summer (with advance reservations advised during busy weekends and summer months). Two trips are available — Hudson Mills to Delhi Metropark, $12.50, or Dexter-Huron Metropark to Delhi Metropark, $7.50, plus deposit charge.

For details contact Skip's Canoe Rental Service at 769-8686 or Hudson Mills Metropark at 426-8211 (Dexter). Free copies of the 1978-79 Huron River Canoe Map also are available at most metroparks. To receive a copy by mail, send your name, address and 20 cents to cover postage to Canoe Map, Metroparks, 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit 48226.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

For 400 years, the basic shape of the violin has changed very little. The instrument has its roots in the medieval fiddle, the rebec, and the lira da braccio, which were all early stringed instruments. It emerged on its own around 1550, with four strings, lateral pegs, a waisted body, and f-shaped sound holes. The art of violin making was brought to perfection by the Italian violin maker, Stradivari and Guarneri. Even today, playing an original Stradivari violin is the dream of many violinists.

At DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 we feature the complete line of Lowry instruments which we feel represent perfection. We invite you to come on by soon and let us show you around our showroom. In addition to pianos and organs we carry all kinds of sheet music and books. "Full Line" Master Charge and Visa. Keeping in shape

Class helps Lemontree women in quest

By KIM KNIVILA

"One, up, two, up, three, up, four, up, five and hold for eight counts." Barely stifled moans are heard as the women try to touch the palms of their hands to the floor. "Now, up on your toes, stretch, try to climb a ladder . . . for the count of 10 . . ." The women walk

Now, ladies...

The women at Lemontree are mastering the art of keeping in shape with the help of Detroit Tiger outfielder Champ Summers' wife, Barb. New to the complex, Mrs. Summers is offering a program that she conducted when she resided in Arizona. For a fee of $20, the women are stretching and flexing, pushing and pulling, all in a quest for a firmer, trimmer body.

precariouly around the room, arms high in the air. Strains of Boz Scaggs can be heard in the background.

The scene is one that takes place every Tuesday and Thursday evening in the Lemontree clubhouse. From 7 to 8 p.m. Lemontree women gather to stretch and flex, push and pull, all in the quest for a firmer, trimmer body.

The instructor of the class is a tall slim woman in superb physical condition. She goes through all of the grueling exercises with the class, calling out the count, offering encouragement and thoroughly enjoying herself.

She jumps to her feet and quickly changes the tape. The lively sounds of the Beach Boys are heard and the class gets ready for yet another exercise, the hip walk. This one they enjoy, for it keeps with the beat of the music and isn't too difficult. The women clap their hands in time with the music as they go through the motions.

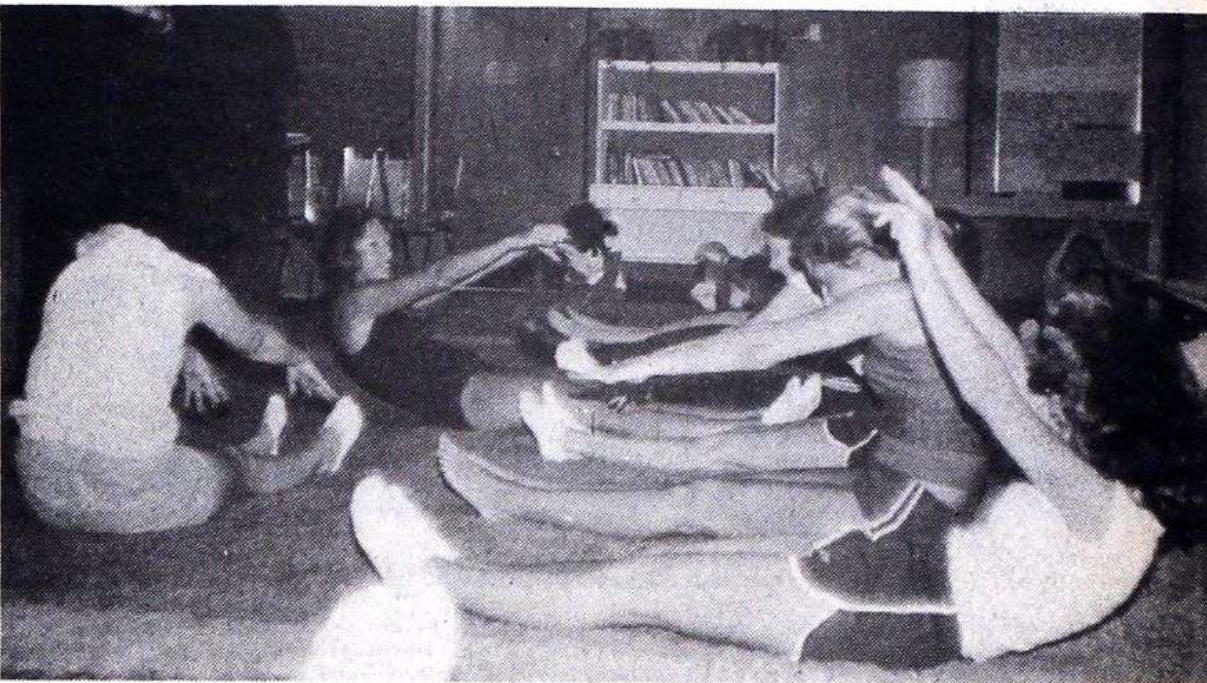

Lemontree is offering this tough, but enjoyable, exercise class through the courtesy of one of the residents. Barb Summers, wife of Detroit Tiger Champ Summers, is the peppy instructor. She began teaching a similar class out in Arizona, where she lives during the winter months. It proved to be very popular with residents out there. When she joined her husband in Detroit, she decided to offer her class to the Lemontree ladies.

The ladies have all had mixed reactions to the class. Stiff and sore, but a lot of fun. Barb keeps her class in constant motion for the entire hour. She leads them through warm-up exercises, and then everyone puts on their shoes and goes out for a quick run. After the running, the tough exercises begin. Just when the women think that they are definitely going to die, cool down exercises begin. The women begin to relax a little bit.

At the end of the class there is meditation and relaxation. Ladies walk out of the class marveling that after all that they have put their bodies through, they actually feel terrific. Barb will be teaching her class through the month of August. Interested Lemontree ladies should sign up for the session that begins on August 7 and runs for four weeks. The fee for the class is $20.

And two...

With strains of Boz Scaggs providing the tempo, women in the Lemontree complex are getting in shape at twice weekly exercise sessions. Conducted by Barb Summers, wife of Detroit Tiger Champ Summers, participants are doing their best in a quest for a firmer, trimmer body. The classes cost $20 and meet on Tuesday and Thursday at the Lemontree clubhouse.

Dancers conquer contest

By LAURA DORRA

Paddles Disco sends an excited couple from a dance audition in their club on to dance at Peppers and to win an all expense paid trip to Hollywood.

On June 29 Paul Gilbert, the talent coordinator for televisions "Dance Fever", chose three couples for the prize winning trip. The audition was held at Peppers disco where 65 couples previously danced for the final audition. Gilbert and other local judges were so impressed with Oakland County's dancers, who came from Oscar's in Southfield, Paddles in Belleville, and Peppers in Waterford, that they awarded three couples all expense paid trips to Hollywood. The judges observed 17 couples and finally narrowed it down to Michael Leach-Carol Rousseau, Barry Douglas-Anjau Jas and Robert-Dandella McCoy, the very happy winners.

The couples were judged on creativity, originality, execution, appearance and showmanship. The dazzling costumes and acrobatic dance routines certainly measured up to the highest standards. The winning couples now have an opportunity to compete on "Dance Fever" with couples from all over the United States for possible movie contracts, plus cash prizes.

Rock and Rollers get ready to be entertained by Paddles best in rock and roll. On Sundays and Mondays, beginning July 15 and 16, the "Wiz Kids" appeared, followed by "Sweet Crystal" on July 22 and 23, continuing with Belleville's very own Mugsy live at Paddles you can shake and shimmy and dance to your hearts content.

On these evenings the price of a drink is cut in half for all customers, and on Wednesday nights from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Paddles presents "Beat the Pro". Guests are invited to challenge a professional racketball player on the floor or you may just sit and relax and watch all the action inside Paddles fabulous and unique glass box. The entertainment schedule for the next few months is "High Rise" in August, "New World" in September and "Colors" in October.

Just checking

Checking over the 1979 Summer Dance Program at the new outdoor dance center in Willow Metropark near New Boston and Flat Rock are two Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority officials — Kenneth M. Smith (left), park superintendent, and HCMA Commissioner

William E. Kreger, who represents Wayne County on the HCMA Board serving the counties of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw. Kreger presided at the dedication of the $146,000 new outdoor dance center on July 15.

HCMA dedicates Willow Metropark dance pavillion

A new outdoor dance center, located at Willow Metropark between New Boston and Flat Rock, has been dedicated to the citizens of southeastern Michigan by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, a regional park agency with 10 Metroparks serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

This facility has been described as "one of the finest in southeastern Michigan" by HCMA Commissioner William E. Kreger, who represents Wayne County on the 7-member HCMA Board of Commissioners.

Kreger presided at the dedication ceremonies held July 15, which was attended by state, regional, county, township and park officials. Following brief dedication ceremonies, visitors danced to the music of the famous Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, directed by Buddy Morrow, until 11 p.m.

Kenneth M. Smith, park superintendent, said the building and dance floor have been constructed over a three-year period at a cost of $146,000, with $71,500 in HCMA improvement funds and $74,500 State Recreational Bond Funds, administered by the Department of Natural Resources.

Construction costs were $93,000 for the building — consisting of block and brick construction and other low maintenance materials — dance floor, $47,000, and lighting, $5,500. There is 3,300 square feet of dancing area and 7,200 square feet of area for tables, chairs or spectator comfort.

The outdoor dance center is located at the Games-Swimming pool complex, which features an olympic-sized pool, bathhouse, tot lot, food service and patio, 10 shuffleboard, four basketball and two tennis courts and landscaped grounds.

This summer, the open-air dance center will feature square dancing on Fridays, ballroom dancing to Detroit-name orchestras on Saturdays and disco dancing on Sundays. (In case of inclement weather, dancing will be held at the indoor terrace of the food bar.)

HCMA has spent some $5.2 million on Willow Metropark since 1962, including HCMA tax dollars plus federal and state grants. Almost $400,000 was received by HCMA in federal funds from the Housing and Urban Development Department in Washington, D.C., as an open-space grant for land acquisition and construction of roads, sewer and water facilities over a 12-year period, starting in 1962.

The swimming pool, recreational facilities and adjoining area and buildings were constructed at a cost of about $2 million dollars, largely with State Recreational Bond Funds.

Willow Metropark was approved as a project by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority Board of Commissioners in 1962, with initial contracts for road and parking lot construction awarded in 1966. Other facilities now include interior park road, parking lots, picnic-playfield areas, shelters, comfort stations, shorefishing along the Huron River fall color and winter sports.

The entrance to Willow Metropark is on Willow Road, just west of Huron River Drive. This temporary entrance will be in effect until opening of a major entrance at the junction of the new I-275 Freeway and West Road, expected in 1980 or later.

Ex-CCC members sought

From 1933 to 1942 more than 3 million men served in the Civilian Conservation Corps, a program established by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to get the United States out of the Depression.

Last year 500 former CCC workers from 39 states gathered in Sacramento, Calif., to organize the National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni.

Since then the organization has located 10,000 ex-CCC members. It wants to find more.

If you are an ex-CCC worker, contact Jack Vincent at 1709 Michigan St., West Sacramento, Calif. 95691. Anyone who served in the CCC in any capacity is eligible to join the organization.

Wishing well.

Ypsilanti's Old Depot area welcomes farmer's market

It seems that competition is dwindling with more and more supermarkets closing their doors. In Ypsilanti, for instance, the number of groceries in which to shop have dropped off dramatically.

"There's only one supermarket left in Ypsilanti," said Ypsilanti City Councilman Pete Murdock, who added: "It is out on the edge of the city, but it's supposedly moving away."

"There's really no other place within the city limits where consumers can select from a wide range of fresh produce."

But the future does look bright. With the new municipal farmers' market moving into the city, consumers will be able to find fresh fruits and vegetables right nearby. Ypsilanti's Farmers' Market is scheduled to open for business Aug. 4, and will be in operation two days a week — every Wednesday and Saturday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. City officials expect the market will be supplied with fresh produce until mid-October.

This year, vendors will sell their wares outdoors in the open area surrounding an historical railroad freight warehouse off East Cross Street in Depot Town. The warehouse eventually will be revamped to accommodate an indoor market, but construction probably will not be completed until the 1980 market season.

The new market is a cooperative effort of the City of Ypsilanti, the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). Ypsilanti's market is one of three Michigan municipal markets, taking part in an Extension project, funded by a USDA grant. The end result of the project will be a step manual, published by extension, which will provide organizational guidelines and advice for other communities interested in establishing municipal markets.

A wide variety of farm-fresh produce will be available at the market as fruits and vegetables come into season.

"When the market opens in the beginning of August, available produce should run the whole gamut of garden fruits and vegetables — from green beans, peas and cabbage, to tomatoes, onions, sweet corn and cucumbers."

Much of the produce also will be available in supplies large enough for consumers who intend to can or freeze produce this summer," Washtenaw County Extension Director John Comstock said.

Consumers may save food dollars by shopping at the farmers' market, according to Comstock.

"Buying produce from local farmers makes sense. With fuel shortage problems and continually rising food distribution costs, produce shipped into food stores from other areas of the state and nation will become more and more expensive. Fewer costs are incurred when a farmer brings his produce right into a neighborhood market and sells it himself," Comstock explained.

Shirley Kuch, a Washtenaw County grower plans to sell fresh produce from her farm at the Ypsilanti market this summer. She expects the new venture to be an enjoyable and profitable experience for the whole family.

"The kids will help out, too. It'll give them a chance to earn some extra money," she said.

The farmers' market is part of an organized plan to restore and renovate Depot Town, an historical section of Ypsilanti. Depot Town residents and property owners are enthusiastic about the effect the market will have on the community.

"It's a perfect way to use the old freight warehouse. There's lots of open space and ample parking adjacent to the site," said Frank Leimbach, a resident of Depot Town. "I think that people will enjoy shopping for fresh produce at the farmers' market. The market may also help to increase community interest and bring people back to Depot Town."

Leimbach, a former Ypsilanti city planner, is also a member of the Depot Town Association.

The Depot Town Association is composed of Depot Town property owners. For the past several years the association has been working in cooperation with the city of Ypsilanti to restore the area's original 19th century architecture and renovate and revitalize this urban community.

"Although old buildings are historically important, there are other, equally important reasons to preserve them. For one thing, they already are standing and still usable. Why tear them down to rebuild? It's a practical matter of conserving existing resources," Leimbach said.

Things that matter

Translations: Getting it right

BY GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

After George Lamsa came to the United States from his Near East homeland in 1917, he became something of a baseball fan. One day, several years later, when he was listening to a game on the radio, he heard the announcer say that Babe Ruth has "died on third."

Lamsa was sorry to hear that, for the Babe had been one of his heroes. Two innings later he was to get an even greater shock. Ruth, dead on third in the fifth inning, managed to come to life to hit a home run in the seventh!

It wasn't the only time Lamsa was put to confusion by an American idiom. Once a woman invited him to her home for a party.

"We're going to have a shower for Mary So-and-So," she said.

In the Near East, brides are bathed before the nuptials. Lamsa was surprised to hear that Americans had the same custom. He accepted the invitation but, once at the party, he wondered what had happened to change the plans. The bride-to-be got plenty of gifts, but there was no shower!

Lamsa tells these stories on himself to illustrate how an idiom can give a completely erroneous impression to a person unfamiliar with it.

Son of Near East nomads who grew up speaking the Aramaic language (the language of the apostles), Lamsa discovered years ago that our Bible translations had gotten many of the Aramaic idioms all wrong.

There is, for example, a saying in Aramaic, "If your hand offends you, cut it off."

American idiomatic speech would render it, "If you have a habit of stealing, cut it out." But the original Aramaic idiom appears in our English translations -- to the confusion of many.

When a man who had been asked to follow Jesus said, "Let me bury my father first," he didn't mean his father had died. He meant, "Let me take care of my father until he dies," or, in effect, "When I have no more family obligations, then I'll follow you."

Lamsa took on the task of translating the Bible directly from Aramaic into English, giving the idioms their English meanings. His is one of the more interesting Bible translations.

Once Lamsa was to preach at a church on Long Island, N.Y., to which the J.P. Morgans, the Duponts and other Wall Street families belonged.

When he told the minister he was going to speak on the text, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to get into heaven," the minister began to perspire. That was the same as telling these people they couldn't get to heaven.

"Don't worry," said Lamsa. "The correct translation is 'rope,' not 'camel,' as I will point out in my sermon. The Aramaic characters for camel and rope are practically identical. Only a native can tell the difference. The Greek translators got it wrong."

The passage, Lamsa said, doesn't mean that it is impossible for a rich man to get into heaven. It means that there will have to be some changes first.

Just as you have to remove some strands of the rope before it will go through the needle's eye, said Lamsa, so a rich man will have to strip away some of his material desires before he can get into heaven.

J.P. Morgan, who took the collection that day, came up to Lamsa after the service to say how much he had enjoyed the sermon.

DICK ANTHONY, DOTTIE ANTHONY, LOREN LAING AND KARYN ANTHONY LAING.

Wayne Church will host Anthony Family in concert

Nationally-known concert pianist and baritone soloist Dick Anthony will be appearing in a special 1-night concert on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 36125 Glenwood, Wayne.

Anthony will be joined by his wife Dottie, a highly-respected concert harpist and their two daughters and son-in-law, for a complete family concert of contemporary sacred music.

Anthony has endeared himself to thousands of Christian audiences across the United States in a wide-ranging musical career that has included regular appearances on the ABC-TV program "Songtime" and as featured singer, instrumentalist and conductor for 11 years with radio station WMBI in Chicago.

He has recorded many albums, including six duet albums with Bill Pearce, two solo recordings and had a hand in many others as arranger-conductor for the Melody Four Quartet and the Sixteen Singing Men.

He also has served as executive producer and musical director for the TV series, "Day of Discovery," syndicated nationally in 350 markets across the United States and Canada, and for Richard DeHaan's "Radio Bible Class," heard on more than 600 radio stations worldwide.

His talented family, which has accompanied him on concert tours in more than 28 states, brings exceptional musical ability to the concerts.

Wife Dottie is a well-known harpist, daughter Cheryl, a pianist and soloist, daughter Karyn a concert pianist and son-in-law Loren Laing, an accomplished violinist.

As if all that musical talent were not enough, the Anthony's enhance their performances using a dramatic multi-media presentation.

Using rear a projector, vivid 35 MM slides are shown on a huge 10-foot screen as Dick sings. The pictures are arranged graphically to depict the thoughts being presented in song and are synchronized electronically to tape-recorded orchestral accompaniments and live vocals.

The Anthonys present a thoroughly-professional, spiritually-oriented concert designed to communicate their love for Christ.

It promises to be a uniquely entertaining and inspiring evening of sacred music for the entire family. Concert-goers are urged to come early for the best seats.

Lawmakers put teeth into school zone speeds on state's trucklines

According to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District), several bills cleared the legislature recently and are awaiting the Governor's signature. The bills deal with such topics as school zone speed limits, truck widths, births and marriages.

Mahalak said one of the bills would give local authorities the power to establish speed limits on state trunkline highways which pass through school zones.

The state maximum speed limit for school zones before, during and after school is 25 miles an hour, although local governments could increase that speed limit if they wished, he added.

"However, before the new law, neither the state maximum nor locally-set speed limits applied to state trunkline highways within school zones," Mahalak said.

"Those speed limits were set instead by representatives of state and local police, the school district, the county road commission and/or the Department of Transportation, meeting as a board.

"This brought complaints that that type of board was not always responsive to the desires of local parents and residents.

"The new law changes this, giving local governments authority to also set speed limits on the major state highways within school zones."

While formerly the local government could increase the state 25-mile-an-hour speed limit, the new law also gives it authority to set a lower speed limit. However, this could be done only after conferring with the State Department of Transportation, the county road commission and local school board.

Another newly-signed law will make regulations on trucks with over-wide loads more flexible and clear, Mahalak said.

State law limits the truck widths to 96 inches, but trucks can apply for special permits for loads which exceed that width. However, the old statute on special over-width permits is somewhat inflexible, and is not clear on the length of time the permits are considered valid and whether local road authorities can issue such permits on an annual basis.

"There also is a problem for manufacturing firms which truck products and components between Michigan and Canada, since Canada permits a width of as much as 102 inches," he added.

The new law will allow the Department of Transportation, county road commissions and local authorities to designate highways under their jurisdiction on which trucks and loads could exceed the maximum 96-inch width, as long as they are not more than 102 inches wide.

The law's provisions would not, however, restrict the issuance of special permits for over-wide or overweight vehicles. This would allow regularly used overwidth vehicles to obtain a yearly permit for this usage, rather than having to secure such a permit each time such transportation was required.

The new law takes effect on Aug. 1.

One of the new laws prohibits any reference on a birth certificate or public birth record of the legitimacy or illegitimacy of the child, the lawmaker said.

"While there already was law which prohibited an explicit reference to illegitimate birth on public records, it did not apply to birth certificates and records," he said. "The new law will help to protect children from the stigma of birth out-of-wedlock."

"The term 'illegitimate' has negative connotations, and a person can be embarrassed or even discriminated against when the term is found on commonly used official documents or records, such as birth certificates."

The birth records would still contain the essential information required under current law.

If a judge in a state court can perform a marriage, can a judge in a federal court do the same thing? Legislation has been signed into law which gives federal judges in Michigan clear authority to perform marriages. Although the old law was not perfectly clear, it appeared that federal court judges did not have the authority to solemnize a marriage.

In addition to members of the clergy, the existing law had allowed mayors, city clerks, district court magistrates and judges of the district, common pleas, probate and municipal courts to perform marriages. Circuit and appellate court judges also can perform marriages, but only by securing temporary appointment as a lower court judge through the state court administrator.

Legislations come to aid of heating assistance plan

Legislation to maintain funding for the state's Home Heating Assistance Program, to increase funding for the weatherization program, and to produce revenue for an energy conservation fund has been introduced in the State Legislature. The revenue for the programs would be produced by raising the "severance tax" paid by oil and gas companies from 2 to 10 percent.

The severance tax on oil and gas companies is levied on the value of their product at the actual site of production. The proposed increase would bring in an estimated $63 million additional dollars at current oil prices, and more than $95 million in just a few years.

In announcing the measure, State Rep. Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor said that an increase in the severance tax is long overdue, and will bring Michigan in line with other states.

"The need for increasing the tax on oil companies became more critical than ever when the Governor announced his plan to cut off funding for home heating assistance," Bullard said.

The legislature last fall enacted a home heating tax credit which has already resulted in the issuance of more than $32 million to eligible senior citizens and low-income households. Gov. Milliken recently called for an end to the program.

Bullard blasted the Governor's proposal, saying: "In this calendar year alone, more than 280,000 individuals — more than 70 percent of them senior citizens — have received vitally needed home heating cost relief under this program."

"The threatened cut-off of energy assistance funds has dealt our senior citizens and low-income people a severe blow. We must adjust the severance tax on oil companies, if we're going to see that senior citizens don't freeze this winter," Bullard said. "Sky-rocketing energy costs indicate a need for increasing the home heating costs assistance program."

The Democratic lawmaker said raising the severance tax would have little impact on consumers.

"Contrary to claims which we can expect from special interest groups," he said, "raising the severance tax will not shut down production in Michigan and will not lead to noticeable increases in consumer prices."

"Michigan's oil goes into a national pool, so little of the oil produced in the state is sold here. As a result, Michigan consumers will not be greatly affected. The price increases possible for natural gas will be offset by the fact that Michigan produces only a fraction of the gas it uses."

"The current severance rate of 2 percent is extremely low today."

He noted that severance taxes in similar states were much higher than Michigan's and pointed to the "enormous profits" that oil companies will be making under national price decontrol.

"Nationwide, oil companies will reap billions in profits under deregulation. Since it's citizens and taxpayers who are financing the oil companies' gluttonous profiteering, it is only fair that we recover some of these profits to meet vital human needs," Bullard said.

In addition to funding home heating assistance, Bullard's proposal also would double existing funding for the state's program to weatherize low- and moderate-income homes.

"Energy cost assistance is essential, but we cannot continue to spend millions to heat energy-inefficient homes without putting some state commitment toward weatherizing those homes," Bullard said.

CITY OF ROMULUS

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE FOR MICHIGAN CITIES, TOWNSHIPS AND VILLAGES

THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. CODE AMENDED.

The Uniform Traffic Code for cities, townships and villages promulgated by the Commissioner of State Police on February 14, 1958 and published in Supplement No. 13, and as amended both on February 14, 1961 and published in Supplement No. 25, and on February 26, 1968 and published in Supplement No. 54, and on August 4, 1976 and published in Supplement No. 88, to the 1954 Michigan Administrative Code, in accordance with Public Act 62 of 1956, State of Michigan, previously adopted by reference by the City of Romulus as Chapter V, Article 1., is hereby amended as hereinafter set forth.

SECTION 2. CHANGES IN CODE.

The following sections and sub-sections of the Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Townships and Villages are hereby amended and additional sections or sub-sections are added as indicated. Subsequent section numbers used in this ordinance shall refer to the like numbered sections of the Uniform Traffic Code.

a. Section 1.006a. After Section 1.006 add Section 1.006a as follows:

Section 1.006a. Civil Infraction.

"Civil Infraction" means an act or omission prohibited by law which is not a crime as defined in Section 5 of Act No. 308 of the Public Acts of 1931, as amended, being Section 750.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, and for which civil sanctions may be ordered.

b. Section 1.045. After Section 1.044 add Section 1.045 as follows:

Section 1.045. Vehicle Code.

"Vehicle Code" means Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, being Sections 257.1 to 257.923 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

c. Section 9.3. Section amended to read:

Section 9.3. Penalties.

Any provision of this ordinance which describes an act or omission which constitutes a civil infraction under the terms of the Michigan Vehicle Code, being 1949 P.A. 300 as amended, shall be processed as a civil infraction and any person found to have committed a civil infraction may be ordered to pay a civil fine of not more than $100 and costs in accordance with section 907 of the Michigan Vehicle Code.

Violation of any other provision of this ordinance not constituting a civil infraction, as herein provided, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SECTION 3. PUBLICATION.

The City Clerk shall publish this ordinance as required by the City Charter.

SECTION 4. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This amendatory ordinance shall take effect on August 1, 1979.

I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk for the City of Romulus do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an ordinance duly adopted by the Romulus City Council at their regular meeting held on the 10 day of July.

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

ATTEST: William M. Oakley, Mayor

Within forty-five (45) days after publication of any ordinance duly adopted by the Council, a petition may be presented to the Council protesting against such ordinance continuing in effect. Said petition shall contain the text of such ordinance and shall be signed by not less than six (6%) percent of the registered electors registered at the last preceding election at which a Mayor of the City was elected. Said ordinance shall thereupon and thereby be suspended from operation and the Council shall immediately reconsider such ordinance.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

Three members of the City Council (Block, Carter, Banks) had a discussion with housing developers J. J. Hasenau, Hasenau Homes, and Herbert Chernick, Jerome Building Company, for the purpose of discussing the development of the Urban Renewal Area. Based on the conversation, I request that the Attorney, Stephen Hitchcock, submit a status report on the plat recording of the Urban Renewal Area. Further, that an inquiry be sent to the Plat Board and the title company explaining the delay. Also that a committee be formed consisting of two City Council members, a member of the Citizens District Council and a member of the Administration for the purpose of establishing criteria qualifying developers; and that we receive input from the City Planner (incorporating the Urban Renewal Plan).

I would further request that a resolution be drafted in opposition to the sixteen (16) loopholes in the Headlee Amendment.

Woodall completes Navy's Hospital Corps School

Navy Hospitalman Recruit John R. Woodall, the son of Hunter and Mary Woodall of Ashton Drive, Romulus, has graduated from the Navy's Hospital Corps School.

During the 10-week course at the Naval Hospital Corps School at Great Lakes, Ill., he received instruction in the basic medical procedures used by hospital corpsmen as they assist Navy doctors and nurses.

He also was introduced to all phases of military health services, including X-Ray technology, laboratory analysis, general practice and surgery.

He joined the Navy in December 1978.

Also in the armed forces: Airman John A. Engel, the son of Mr. Donald J. Engel of Ash Road, New Boston, has been selected for training in the civil engineering, mechanical and electrical field at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., after completing basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs, and received special instruction in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Purse snatching: Hit-run crime

(For Your Safety is an ongoing crime prevention column provided by the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police, a state-wide law enforcement association, dedicated to greater police professionalism.)

By JACK BROWN
President
Michigan Fraternal
Order of Police

Purse-snatching is a growing "street" crime that typifies many big city or urban shopping center police reports.

Members of the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police know that incidences of this crime frequently run in waves. The thief's mode of operation rarely shows any ingenuity, but there is enough variety to make any citizen apprehensive.

Some purse-snatchers lie in wait in darkened doorways, loitering near cars, hiding in bushes. Others come racing along in crowded streets to make quick grabs, then run off before anyone can react.

Then there are the toughs who use knives and razors to cut straps or handles quickly as they take your purse. Some do not attempt to grab it openly, but merely try to open it with finesse and steal its contents.

The occurrences of purse-snatching are increasing. Most Michigan FOP members think it may be so because far too often the victim takes the loss and bears it — without helping to apprehend or prosecute the criminal.

Your own alertness — and some common-sense precautions — are your best defense against this crime. But even then, it still can happen. If it does, a good description can go a long way in helping the police to apprehend the snatcher — and your positive identification is essential in prosecuting him.

Typically, most purses are snatched in the parking lot of a shopping center or mall area. Usually, during evening hours.

A thief may go up to an arriving shopper's car and say something unintelligible. The victim rolls down the car window or gets out to hear better, and is grabbed and pushed to the pavement. The thief grabs the purse from inside the car and flees quickly.

There's another version: A woman driver, stopped at a traffic light. A thief opens the passenger door, or reaches through an open car window, grabs the purse from the seat next to her and dashes off. The solution here is quick and easy enough — keep car doors locked and windows rolled up fully. Not everybody does it.

In a crowded shopping center or busy street, crowds furnish some, but not much, protection. Your best defense here is to hold your handbag as securely as possible next to your body. Conceal it, if possible — and avoid opening it and revealing its contents too overtly.

Walking along swinging a purse held at your fingertips, or dangling loosely from your wrist, may give you a fashionable look, but it is an open invitation to a purse snatcher to rush by and take it.

At work, keep your purse out of sight, preferably locked in a desk drawer or locker where transient traffic won't be tempted. If there are no lockable drawers, bring your own lock.

Our officers advise that if someone does attempt to grab your purse off your arm, the best course of action you can take is to let them have it. Let up on your grip. There's too much risk of a sprained wrist or a bad fall, especially for the elderly who are prime targets for this crime.

And, if you ever manage to confront a purse-snatcher or cut off his escape — don't do it alone. This type of criminal, usually young and panicky, can turn on you. Your life is more important than a purse and its contents. An emergency whistle or shriek alarm, carried separately, is far more useful — and safer.

Citizens can help discourage this crime by carrying as little money as possible. If large sums must be carried, don't advertise it. Record the numbers of all your credit cards and report their theft promptly.

Billing for tuition and fees will be sent, and registration will be considered complete when payment is received by the college.

Catalogues, describing the several hundred classes offered by the college, and brochures, detailing specifics of enrolling and of financial aid programs available, are available by mail or at the Registration and Admissions Center.

Tuition is to be paid for all classes in full at the time of registration. Master Charge or Visa will be accepted. Fees for in-district residents are $15 per credit hour. In-district senior citizens are invited to participate at no charge. Non-credit courses, varying in length from one session to those of 15 weeks are offered, and tuition for these is determined by the subject content and length of the course.

The college also provides a day care facility for children 1½-5 years of age whose parents are attending classes or related activities at the college. Hours for the Children's Center are 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Fees for the Children's Center are determined on a sliding scale which begins at 60 cents an hour. Specific information about the center is available by calling 973-3538.

An Adult Resources Center where staff provide assistance and special programs for adults re-entering school after never having been to college or after being away from school for many years is also open to interested students. Questions regarding the center should be directed to staff at 973-3528.

Editorial opinions

Getting it in 'print'

How does one go about getting a news item published in the paper? A common question asked by hundreds of individuals and groups throughout the community.

Because the question has been asked so frequently in the past, and will probably be asked again in the future, Associated Newspapers is devoting this space to a detailed explanation of how to improve the chances that your story will make the pages of your newspaper.

A community group or civic organization should suggest that their group give one person the responsibility of dealing with the paper. That person should come into the office and discuss with the news editor, the paper's deadline for news items in your community, the type of photographs suitable for inclusion in the paper, and the identifying information for photographs.

In addition, the person delegated the responsibility for working with the paper should make an attempt to gain an understanding of procedures employed by the newspaper.

An individual who wishes to place an item in the paper should also contact the news editor for deadlines and the proper procedures for preparing news material and photos for submission.

In general, any item submitted to your paper will have a better chance of getting in if a few simple guidelines are followed.

Always type submitted material, if possible. It is time-consuming and costly for the newspaper to type material that is submitted in handwritten form. Further, some people write illegibly and it is almost impossible to read their information.

When typing information for the story, start the story in the middle of the first sheet of paper. By leaving the top half of the sheet blank, the editor has space to instruct the typesetters on how to set the story. The space at the top of the paper will also be used to instruct the composition department on what page the material will be printed.

Again, if material is typed, it should be triple spaced. This will allow the editor to correct spelling and grammatical errors. Single-spaced letters do not provide any space for those corrections.

If the material is submitted handwritten, it should also be triple-spaced on lined paper, and the material should be printed rather than written.

Handwritten stories that are submitted single spaced must always be typed by the editorial staff prior to printing. This additional effort will require more time by the paper, and consequently, the article may appear in the paper late.

Photographs which accompany any news item submitted to the paper should be black and white, no smaller than two inches square or larger than 8 by 10 inches. All photographs should have the name of the subjects printed on the back, and also the name of the person they are to be returned to.

Color photographs sometimes can be used, but may be rejected by the photo editor, if he believes they will not reproduce properly.

If a photograph is necessary to properly support the news item sent in, a call well in advance of the activity should be made to request that a photographer be assigned.

While it is impossible for the paper to assign a photographer to all the requested events, we will make every effort to cover events of a broad general interest.

These few simple guidelines will considerably improve the chances of a submitted story making it into the paper.

While we are dedicated to serving the community, it only stands to reason that articles properly prepared will be handled the fastest, and there are times when we will have no one available for handling those articles that may require special treatment.

Never request that your news item be taken over the phone. This practice leads to errors and if the article is worth printing, it is worth printing correctly.

Clip this article from the paper and keep it handy for those times when you might wish to submit an article to the paper.

By following these guidelines, you will make our job easier and your article better.

We are standing by waiting to hear from you.
Working together, we can build a better community.

Tax credit woes

Michigan's property tax-rent credits against the state income tax, returns about $300 million a year to senior citizens, handicapped persons, eligible veterans and households whose property taxes or rent take up an unduly amount of their income.

The system, which has been refined over the years, has been especially beneficial to senior citizen retirees with limited, fixed income. However, one problem with the program is the way the tax credits are rebated.

Because the credits are processed as part of the personal income tax return, the checks the state sends to claimants are often seen as income tax refunds, and not rebates on property taxes. While it is possible that a person might receive a lump payment for several other credits, and a refund of excess income withheld, more than likely the largest part of the refund check is made up of property tax credits.

This lack of public visibility has made it difficult to explain how the system works and to answer complaints about high property taxes. Moreover, many eligible senior citizens and other persons may not be taking advantage of the property tax-rent credits because they do not understand how it works.

Those who do not understand how the system works often complain that they receive their rebate checks from the state too late to apply to local property taxes because the checks are processed with and connected to income tax returns. The problem is especially difficult for people who live on their savings. They must take money out of their accounts to make property tax payments, thus losing investment interest.

A bill recently approved by the House would seek to solve these problems by separating property tax-rent credit payments from income tax refunds.

The state treasurer would issue a certificate in the amount of the tax credit which could be used to pay property taxes or rent, either directly or to an escrow account or landlord's agent.

After the local treasurer received the certificate, it would become a negotiable instrument.

If the certificate was for an amount greater than the property taxes, the local treasurer would refund the excess to the taxpayer.

As approved by the House and sent to the Senate, the plan would work this way:

Beginning next December 1, the Michigan Department of Treasury would issue certificates based on 1978 property tax claims. During

By WILLIAM KEITH
State Representative
33rd District

January through April of 1980, taxpayers would file claims for 1979. From April through July of 1980, the department would process the returns and send back an income tax refund and a property tax credit certificate.

In December of 1980, the department would send a certificate to be used on property taxes due in February of 1981, and a 1980 income tax form. The credit would be equal to the one received during April through July of 1980.

From January through April of 1981, taxpayers would again file credit and income tax forms. The state would process applications and send back income tax refunds, along with a notice that the taxpayer would receive in December a certificate which could be used to pay property taxes due the following February.

The bill, in separating property tax credit rebate payments from income tax refunds, would make the credit system more visible to the public, and therefore permit the public to understand the system's advantages.

It would allow people to use their rebates to pay their taxes, instead of having to take money out of their pockets or from savings to pay taxes due in February and wait until the state sends a refund check.

A dream...or a lie

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

About the time I was beginning to feel I was the only person in the world who cared about the growing government bureaucracy, a letter arrived in the mail from a local banker friend.

Attached neatly to the letter (what other way would a banker attach anything) was a clipping of a recent column I had written on the subject of government, its waste, and the growing movement to shrink our fat-cat bureaucrats down to size.

The letter was complete with smiling face and congratulatory comments on my column. How could I consider the writer less than a brilliant person when the expressed observations about my abilities were so accurate.

In addition to the clipping, and almost lost to a dumped cup of coffee, was a reprint from Fortune magazine.

That reprint, published the same week that Detroit was host to the National Education Association's convention, contained data from California's Budget Dept. following that state's overwhelming approval of Proposition 13.

While the NEA was venting its spleen at any and all who would support the growing movement to require financial accountability for government, Fortune was providing information which made Proposition 13 look more and more like the solution to all of man's problems.

According to the article, in spite of all the terrible things that were supposed to happen to California after Proposition 13, that $6.4-billion property tax cut, and the $1-billion cut in state income taxes has actually stimulated California's economy, it did not destroy it.

In the last year, in the wake of the tax cut, personal income in California increased 14 percent. Consumer spending and retail sales rose 14 percent. Over 552,000 new jobs were created in the private sector while only 17,000 local government workers had been laid off. And if that isn't enough, despite the huge tax cut, the State of California is anticipating an end-of-year budget surplus of more than $3 billion.

Now this information will be no surprise to proponents of tax reform, but opponents of cutting government spending will surely have to regroup for the coming fight.

And regroup they will, because to lose this battle would be to lose the momentum established since the 'New Deal' days when buying your way out of trouble became respectable.

But, fortunately, I do not think they will win. They will not win because they have nothing new to offer the citizens of this country who appear fed-up with the continued drift toward government-mandated mediocrity.

And they will not win because, like my friend the banker says: either the California statistics are a dream or a damn lie, and they apparently are not a lie.

It is indeed a shame that so many special interests will be affected by the coming return of bureaucratic accountability, but since in most cases, it was that same special interest which created the problems to begin with, perhaps that is justice.

But the real irony is that a cut in government taxing and spending will create far more new opportunities for everyone than unproductive dumping of public money into problem areas.

Because government has no incentive to see that the job is done better and cheaper, it is not.

So thanks to old 'high pockets', my banking buddy, for the kind comments. Keep those foreclosures rolling.

Once upon a time...

To the Editor:

Once upon a time there were two asses, Castor and Pollux, who lived in a meadow in the middle of a great jungle. There was not path leading away from this place but they didn't care because the meadow was lush with grass which they ate greedily and it seemed that these golden days would last forever.

But as time went by the jungle slowly crept into the pasture and there was less and less grass. The time came when the patches of grass were very limited and Castor would have to stand in line until Pollux was finished feeding, then it was turn about and Pollux would have to wait.

One day Pollux said, "Castor, we are surely running out of grass. Something must be done." Castor replied, "There is plenty of grass. It's just that the great jungle is encircling and withholding it from us."

Pollux being the smarter of the two determined that this was not so and struck off through the great jungle and in time found his way to a farm. The farmer was glad to find him and offered him a barn to live in with grain and hay to eat in exchange for his work in pulling a wagon.

Pollux made the change in his life style and lived happily ever after.

Castor, however, still insisted that there was plenty of grass and died of starvation.

Moral: It pays to be a smart donkey.

Tell your children

To the Editor:

We have a year-old Great Dane, who has been to obedience school, is well mannered and kept chained up (on a car towing chain and thick choke chain collar) when he's outside. We also have a fenced-in yard. The dog is not mean, has never bitten anyone and plays with my 6-year-old daughter and her friends. The problem is kids who must drive their bikes up to the fence, or walk very close to the fence. They stand and stare at the dog, or they bark at him.

Naturally, he barks and gets upset. That's his duty.

Kids think it's cute to make him bark and jump. I even heard one say, "Don't worry, he's chained up!"

I've done all I can to insure he won't get out. He's never out when we're not here, as he's a housedog. But, what if he breaks loose? Why can't parents tell their kids not to tease dogs?

And in spite of all our precautions, if he does get someone, it's our fault, even though the kids have been teasing him.

I've told the kids to leave him alone and talked to a few parents, but some still bother him. The police said there is nothing they can do except tell the parents, or I may be able to file a civil suit.

Please parents, tell your children not to tease dogs. It's not cute, especially if the dog breaks loose. I would feel bad if he bit someone. I hope it doesn't take that before you tell your kids not to bother dogs.

Thanks for the help

To the Editor:

I am writing to express our appreciation to you for honoring your commitment to assist us with the special benefit we held on June 14.

On behalf of the Planning Committee, I'd like to thank you for all that you did to assist us with this matter. Without your support, the efforts put forth for CLF would surely not have been as beneficial.

We look upon successes such as this as triumphs not only for the Children's Leukemia Foundation, but for cancer research, its victims and the community in general. We hope you continue to support similar efforts in the future.

Once again, thank you.

Analysis: What is it like?

What's it like to visit a psychotherapist? Does analysis really work? Don't people get better on their own?

According to Howard Shevrin, Ph.D., University of Michigan professor of psychology in the department of psychiatry and director of the Psychotherapy Clinic at the U-M psychiatric hospitals, psychotherapy is alive and well and helping people deal with personal problems.

This is despite a loss of fad appeal in recent years and attacks on its efficacy.

"Psychotherapy is real," Dr. Shevrin asserted. "It works."

However, decades of doubts, romanticizing and fantasizing have encrusted the profession with myth, he noted. This too often keeps persons who could benefit from psychotherapy from getting close enough to see what it really is.

Far from being a mysterious process, psychotherapy in some ways is akin to enrolling in a very special class. There is the teacher and one student — you. The subject is whatever is bothering you. In addition to choosing the course, you also decide when you have graduated. And the only one who has to take notes is the teacher. The diploma is peace of mind and the ability to find satisfaction in your personal life.

Dr. Shevrin, a psychoanalyst who has practiced psychotherapy for 25 years and directs the training of 50 psychotherapists in the U-M clinic, described therapy as "entirely rooted in human experience. 'It's a mutual thing (between therapist and patient). It's not a 'psychological operation.'"

"Nothing is more natural for a person to talk out his problems with a sympathetic listener. Many people benefit from this, but talking alone doesn't always help," the therapist explained.

If tensions, anxiety, anger do not go away at this point, the person may need to talk to someone whose training goes a step beyond the sympathetic listener, Dr. Shevrin said.

A psychotherapist is trained to recognize problems and conflicts which the patient is not aware of and then to lead the patient through a process of discovery so that he understands for himself the emotional forces which are giving him trouble.

Who benefits from psychotherapy?

"Therapy can help when things have not been right for a long time in someone's personal world. This doesn't mean a person is greatly depressed or despondent, only that there is continual personal distress in life situations. These can involve problems in work, school or marriage which cannot be pinned on circumstances," Dr. Shevrin said. "People who need psychotherapy find that they are not only unhappy themselves, but they make life difficult for persons close to them."

While modern psychotherapists have deviated in theory considerably from Freud's original rigid hypothesis, a belief in the unconscious remains a cornerstone.

Psychotherapy starts where conscious, rational efforts of the patient are not bringing results, Dr. Shevrin said.

Myths, fostered by novels and such film classics as "Spellbound," tout recall of childhood experience as the key to unlocking personal problems.

"This is not true," Dr. Shevrin said. "Many people have excellent recall of every detail of their childhood, but this does them no good because they cannot make a present-day emotional link-up with the experience."

"Experience is the key to successful therapy," he said.

The patient develops a relationship with his therapist and, during therapy, relates in his habitual way to the therapist as he would a friend or family member. Anger, fear, anxiety and frustration come out. However, the psychiatrists or psychotherapists, because of their training, do not react in the typical way when these emotions are directed toward them. Instead, they call attention to the patient's behavior and try to get him to recognize his feelings and to see if they have a history.

Memories come back, but this not so important as the patient's present-day experience, Dr. Shevrin explained. Psychotherapy is emotional learning in the present by which the patient sees its relevancy to the past. Once the patient can understand his problems both emotionally and intellectually, he is then free to make a choice of what, if anything, he wants to change in his life in light of this new knowledge.

Does psychotherapy take a long time? In many cases, one to three years, Dr. Shevrin noted. But this is not a yardstick for how "sick" the patient is but merely indicates the amount of ground to be covered.

"You can't go over the emotional milieu of a lifetime in a few weeks or months working one to three hours per week," he said.

State Senate sets up direct line from constituents to lawmakers

Michigan residents can gain free telephone access to their state senator by calling the Michigan Senate's new toll free "Action Line". Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-13th District) announced that a toll free telephone line has been installed in the office of the Secretary of the Senate to relay messages to senators from their constituents.

Messages received on the toll free number, 1-800-292-5893, Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., will be forwarded to the senators' offices several times a day. Senators and their staff will then be able to respond to the constituent request on existing state WATS lines.

"The Senate Action Line is designed to minimize the expense and delay many citizens encounter when trying to deal with state government," Faust said. "By using this toll free referral line, we hope to provide our constituents with prompt service at a minimum of expense."

Many of the information requests received in Senate offices concern the state bureaucracy and where to go to have a problem solved Faust said.

"One phone call on the Senate Action Line will put the informational contacts and resources of a State Senator's office at the disposal of Michigan residents and eliminate the need for several costly long distance phone calls," he added.

Faust said that several senators had expressed an interest in some type of toll free phone service for constituents wishing to get in touch with their Senator. Installation of two lines in the Secretary of the Senate's office will provide that service without the expense and duplication of individual lines for each office.

"If you require information concerning legislation, or need help in cutting through bureaucratic red tape, the Michigan Senate Action Line is at your disposal," Faust said. "I encourage all Michigan citizens to utilize this service to make their voice heard in the legislative process."

VA to reach out

The Veterans Administration in October will inaugurate a novel outreach program, aimed at assisting Vietnam Era veterans who have experienced persistent difficulties in re-entering the mainstream of American life.

The new, low-key counseling program was authorized by the Veterans Health Care Amendments Act of 1979, signed into law by President Carter on June 13.

The law authorizes VA to provide readjustment counseling for Vietnam Era veterans who request such assistance within two years after discharge, or before Oct. 1, 1981, whichever is later.

An innovation in the law permits VA to provide these counseling services without the necessity of a formal medical diagnosis.

A major goal of the new service will be the readjustment motivation of Vietnam Era veterans who are not mentally ill, but may need counseling for a variety of readjustment problems they are encountering in civilian life.

The program will be a preventive medical service which seeks to provide needed assistance without what some regard as the stigma of a psychiatric diagnosis.

To offer the widest variety of readjustment counseling services, an informal "store front" atmosphere may be supplemented with private psychological treatment under authority granted in the law, or by admission to VA's regular mental health program, if the veteran requests this level of help and it is medically indicated.

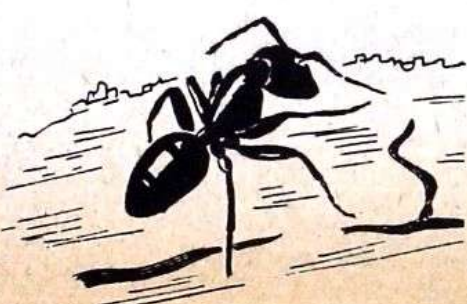

VA will be staffing the program with more than 300 counselors who will be located in approximately 100 "store front" locations across the country.

In addition to authorizing the unique readjustment counseling program, the new legislation also created a five-year VA pilot program for the treatment and rehabilitation of veterans with alcohol or drug dependence disabilities in community-based facilities such as halfway houses, therapeutic communities and psychiatric residential treatment centers.

Also authorized is a 5-year VA pilot program of preventive health care services for certain veterans with service connected disabilities.

PEST OF THE WEEK

CARPENTER ANTS

Ants around the home are of two types, the large black carpenter ants and the smaller brown, red or black garden ants. Both types may invade home in search of food in spring and fall.

Inside try to locate the areas where ants occur in greatest numbers. Spot treat these areas with any prepared aerosol. Outdoors, treating the foundation of the home with diazinon will provide a chemical barrier to prevent entry.

If carpenter ants persist indoors check for areas of unsound wood that serves as a nesting site. Spray the prepared aerosol into the nest and replace the decaying wood.

MIGRAINE HEADACHES

"AGONY AROUND THE CORNER"

PAIN AND PANIC... THE MIGRAINE SYNDROME

The lights of oncoming cars may seem extra bright, nausea wells up and your temples begin to pound. Panic sweeps over you... Oh No! Not tonight of all nights!

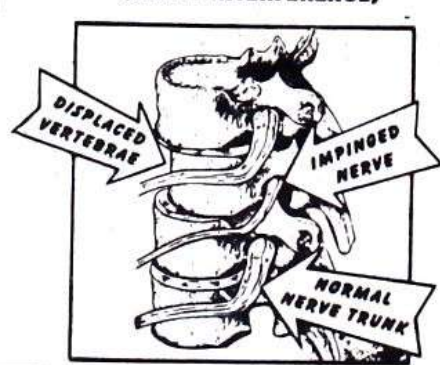

If the symptoms seem all too familiar, you are probably experiencing the warning signals of impending migraine attack. Migraine pain is not always limited to headache. Called by doctors the 'migraine equivalents', other side effects can include: chest and abdominal pains, vomiting, diarrhea, swelling in various parts of the body, fever, pains in arms and legs and rapid mood changes. A study of migraine and its long-range effects shows that often there is a general disintegration of the victim's personality.

It is the FEAR that an attack is lurking to spoil an important occasion that contributes the most to the onset of self doubt and mood changes.

IS IT THE REAL THING?

Migraine sufferers belong to their own exclusive club... and the dues are high. If your occasional headache is caused by drinking or smoking, stale air, eye strain, smog or constipation, then you are one of the lucky ones. Not so fortunate are the sufferers from chronic tension headache... painful, but not as serious as vascular or migraine headache.

VERTEBRAL SUBLUXATION (NERVE INTERFERENCE)

THIS COULD BE THE START OF SOMETHING BIG

Migraine headaches almost never just "go away." Usually, they worsen, disrupting home life and social relationships and adversely affecting performance on the job. Fearing the pain and incapacity of a migraine attack, the sufferer begins to mistrust himself and lose confidence in his ability. Others may begin to mistrust him, opportunities slip by and life on the home front is strained as the family attempts to cope with the frequent migraine mood changes.

WHY ME?

Millions of Americans spend countless dollars on headache remedies, even though they know that these remedies will probably give little or no relief, for migraine headaches are caused primarily by expansion of the arteries and pinching of the nerves of the neck and head. Since the nerves and blood vessels pass through small openings and canals between the neck vertebrae, a misalignment pinches those nerves and vessels leading to the head, causing excruciating pain.

WHERE TO TURN

Chiropractic researchers have developed special nerve tests to determine the precise point in the neck at which the arteries and nerves are being blocked. In difficult or unusual cases, chiropractors often elect to use X-ray machines to pinpoint the location of misalignment. Many thousands of X-rays have proved that the migraine trouble develops when one or more of the tiny neck bones is misaligned or forced out of normal position.

Your chiropractor, a specialist of the spine and nerves, uses all the aids of modern technology to track down the source of the problem. It is usually a simple matter to release the pinched nerves and blood vessels leading to the head, causing excruciating pain.

YOUR HEAD IS IN YOUR HANDS

No one who has ever suffered a migraine attack would willingly repeat the experience... and you don't have to. A quick, painless and inexpensive visit to your chiropractor can mean relief on the way. Your doctor has devoted many years to the study of the conditions that cause migraine. To determine whether or not you suffer from migraine headaches, recognize the symptoms and seek help immediately from your Doctor of Chiropractic.

Battered homes:

First Step 'steps' up counselling services

"First Step" has stepped up its services to battered wives in the out-Wayne County area, with extended hours and addition of two social workers to the staff.

The Westland-based crisis intervention and counseling service for victims of domestic assault is now working on developing a 24-hour crisis line, and is still seriously looking for a house to become its shelter for clients.

Beginning this week, First Step will open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. The crisis phone line is 595-1111.

Recently obtained grant money has enabled the non-profit service organization to add a full-time and part-time social worker to the staff, in addition to director-social worker Debbie Benjamin, who carried the entire counseling load since she was hired last November.

New to the staff are Gail Esty, a recent graduate of Wayne State University with a master's degree in social work, and Judy Gropp, who will work half-time to enable the center to take calls until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

According to director Ms. Benjamin, data for April through June of this year shows that 107 different individuals were counseled, once or several times, during that 3-month span. The victims almost always called before coming in to the community center on Dorsey Road, and some simply called for crisis counseling and emotional support and never came in. All victims calling the center have been women.

Besides counseling, other services have included transportation of victims to Detroit shelters when the woman wanted to leave her home, or money for motel accommodations, plus referrals to social agencies.

First Step depends on volunteers to help in transportation, in staffing the crisis lines and helping to find housing for victims. Volunteers still are urgently needed, Ms. Benjamin added.

The social workers do counsel husbands separately and with their wives if the man, who is usually the aggressor in the violent situation, is willing to come in. Ms. Esty noted that she is currently seeing a husband and wife, separately at times and together at other times, because both have expressed an interest in salvaging their marriage. Most of the abuse has been verbal in that case so far, although the woman came to First Step because she feared that the verbal abuse would soon escalate to physical violence.

In this way, the counseling may serve to be preventive rather than after-the-fact of physical assault.

The project also is actively working on finding a house that can serve as a temporary shelter for abused women. There are none in out-Wayne County. Women must be referred to shelters in Detroit if they have no where else to go.

A house has been identified that project workers would like to use, located on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland. Ms. Benjamin said that the house has been inspected to determine costs of renovations, which were estimated at $20,000. The First Step has not officially had discussions with Wayne County government about using the home, although they plan to do so, Ms. Benjamin said.

The project does not have the $20,000 needed to renovate the building even if they could secure a nominal lease for it. Money will be solicited from various foundations and area corporations.

A recent $53,600 grant from the state cannot be used for capital expenses, so the funds were used to beef up the staff. Other major grant sources have been from the City of Westland and Plymouth Township. Other out-county communities will be asked for funds, specifically funds from federal Community Development grants. Westland's donation came from those CD funds.

It will be a minimum of a year before First Step is operating a shelter, Ms. Benjamin estimated. However, she said she thinks the project has made tremendous progress in the past eight months since her hiring. She was the first staff member.

Welcome to First Step

Your first step away from a home life of violence, or into counseling that can salvage a marriage threatened by abuse, can be made a whole lot easier by the staff of First Step, a program designed specifically to help battered wives. The program director Debbie Benjamin (left) and newly hired social worker Gail Esty (right) are working in the Westland-based program for all of out-Wayne County. Phone number is 595-1111. The office is in the Westland Community Center on Dorsey Road just east of Venoy in Westland.—ANP photo.

Dress up summertime with limes

Juicy limes, one of nature's most versatile fruits, are in abundant supply during the summer months. Take advantage of a lime's sprightly, sweet-tart flavor and splashy good looks to dress-up and enhance any meal.

Limes are seedless so every slice and wedge always is beautiful. Limes make handsome garnishes. Use them liberally to show foods off to best advantage. Serve chunky lime wedges with chicken, seafood and fresh melons for exciting flavor combinations. Squeeze lime into soft drinks for extra sparkle.

Try lime juice in salad dressings for a refreshing change. Lime slices with their rich green color and perfect symmetry add elegance and good taste to drinks, punches, entrees and desserts. And don't forget, grated lime peel sprinkles bright color and perky flavor over fresh fruit compotes, cake icings and crisp salads.

Although limes are available all year long, supplies are most plentiful during June, July and August. Under refrigeration limes keep fresh for 6 to 8 weeks. So, take advantage of supermarket specials with extra savings and stock up. When buying limes, look for ones that feel firm, have smooth shiny skins and brilliant green color.

Limes are packed with juice. To release every drop, first roll the lime between the palm of your hand and the kitchen counter. Gently apply a little pressure. Then, cut, squeeze and watch that juice burst forth!

Florida Key Limerick Punch is a good choice for a summer garden reception or a leisurely afternoon luncheon. It's a beverage of exceptionally fruity and refreshing flavor. Rum complements the fruit for a pleasing spirited version. An ice ring adds glamour to the punch bowl and helps to keep the punch well-chilled.

Be sure to add lime slices to the ice mold for extra eye appeal. Lime slices placed over the rim of each punch glass adds a festive and colorful touch.

If you're planning a summer celebration or birthday party for a younger member of the household, chances are it's an outdoor affair.

Florida icycles make superb thirst quenchers and great outdoor eating for crowds of all ages. The flavor is sweet and has a tropical tang which makes them very appealing and refreshing on a hot day. For little people use small (3 oz.-size) paper cups to freeze lime mixture. When partially frozen, add wooden sticks or plastic spoons.

For adults, freeze lime mixture without spoons and let stand in serving dishes until it has a slushy consistency. Instead of a popsicle you have a sophisticated, fresh fruit ice. For a spirited version, pour a little tequila over the ice at serving time for a splendid frozen margarita.

FLORIDA KEY LIMERICK PUNCH

8 Florida limes
4 medium oranges
3 cups pineapple juice
¾ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 pint strawberries, washed and stemmed
Sprigs of mint
1 quart gingerale, chilled

First, make ice ring. Fill ring mold that fits into punch bowl with cold water. Slice one of the limes. Stir into water. Freeze. Slice another lime; juice remaining limes. Put slices and juice into large juice container. Halve oranges. Cut off 2 or 3 slices. Juice remaining oranges. Put both into container, along with pineapple juice. Dissolve sugar in water over low heat. Cool. Add to juices. Chill thoroughly. To serve: pour mixture into punch bowl over ice ring. Add berries and mint. Pour in gingerale, stirring gently. Ladle into punch cups. Makes about 2½ quarts.

Variation: Omit gingerale. Add 1 cup (or more) amber rum. Makes about 7 cups.

FLORIDA ICYCLE

1 cup water
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated lime peel
one-third cup fresh Florida lime juice (about 3 limes)

In saucepan, combine water and sugar. Heat to dissolve sugar; cool. Stir in lime peel and juice. Pour into 3-ounce paper cups, allowing ¼ cup limeade per cup. Set in freezer until partially frozen, about 1 hour. Insert plastic spoon into center of each popsicle. Freeze firm. To serve, peel paper cup away. Makes 6 popsicles (about 1½ cups limeade).

Tropical refresher

Limes are one of Mother Nature's most versatile fruits and are in abundant supply during the summer months. So the next time you're entertaining consider a refreshing fruit punch, laced with the sprightly tropical flavor of fresh limes.

Proud grandparents include Pearl Hamrick of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. James Renton of Westland, formerly of Belleville. The great-grandparents are Mrs. Bessie Hearn of Trenton and Mrs. Stella Hamrick of Georgia.

Fair crown up for grabs

Who will the fairest of the fair?

That's the question Michigan State Fair officials will answer in the 1979 Queen of Queen competition. And this year the royal winner will have an added jewel in her crown.

Harold Arnoldi, supervisor of entertainment and special events for the fair, has announced that the winner in the queens contest, one of the fair's most popular events, will receive a round-trip ticket for two to Orlando, Fla., and Disney World.

The queen will fly via Delta Airlines — designated Official Carrier of the Michigan State Fair "Queen of Queens" — to Orlando on the weekend of her choice. There she'll receive two nights' complimentary accommodations at the Orlando Hyatt.

The trip is in addition to other prizes, including a $100 Savings Bond, a dozen American Beauty Roses and a basket of Michigan products.

Contestants in the Queen of Queens Pageant must have won a live beauty queen contest in the past year.

WHAT ABOUT OTHER FUNERAL DIRECTORS?

We wish to take this opportunity to compliment the other fine funeral directors in the community for their service to the community over the years. We've met a lot of other funeral directors and we feel our competitors certainly compare most favorably. We think our community is fortunate in having such a high and professional level of funeral service from them. Their being here, as we are, provides members of the community with choices - in service, in economy, in the many intangibles that are inherent in our competitive free enterprise system. We hope you will consider us (as well as our professional colleagues) capable, and worthy of your trust - should the need for funeral services arise. You will find us quick to respond to your needs and sympathetic to your wishes. We'd like to think our fine facilities and meticulous attention to the smallest details set us apart from other professionals in the community. Our main concern is your peace of mind. You may be certain that every detail will be attended to that needs being done. We know you would have it no other way.

Newlywed Burdicks honeymoon in Kentucky, Washington state

A 10-day honeymoon in Louisville, Ky. and Seattle, Wash. followed the July 7 marriage of Karen M. Chevela and Charles H. Beresford, both of Belleville.

Redford United Methodist Church was the setting for the double ring ceremony at which The Rev. Glenn Trembath presided. For the five o'clock wedding the altar was appointed with double candelabras and floral arrangements. Organist and soloist for the occasion were Joan Wells and Robert Barnhart, respectively.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Martin E. Chevela, the bride appeared in a toe-touching gown of qiana embellished with English lace on the yoke and sleeves. Other styling details included a chapel length train, stand-up collar and V-neckline on the little fitted bodice. The lace motif was repeated on her fingertip blusher veil of silk illusion. The bouquet she carried was comprised of white roses, gardenias, carnations and baby's breath.

Preceding the bride to the altar were the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Jane Boyd of Detroit, the honor attendant, and three bridesmaids, Rita Ann Sheffer of Belleville; Linda Osvath of Ypsilanti and Karen Toth of Woodhaven, and a trio of junior bridesmaids, Tracey Boyd, the bride's niece, and Susan and Christina Beresford, the bridegroom's daughters, all from Detroit.

Mrs. Boyd was gowned in toffee-colored qiana, the skirt falling in three tiers to floor-length, while the others were in identical champagne outfits.

All wore sprigs of baby's breath in their hair and held copper baskets filled with apricot roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Five-year-old Shannondoah Beresford was flowergirl at her father's wedding and her brother, Shawn, eight, carried out the role of ringbearer. Shannondoah's little champagne frock was fashioned with capped sleeves and an apron and she, too, wore baby's breath tucked in her hair.

The duties of best man went to Dale Boyd, the bridegroom's brother-in-law from Detroit. Paul Schmidt, Phillip Chevela, the bride's cousin from Belleville, and Chuck Beresford of Detroit, son of the bridegroom, made up the corps of ushers.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Marjorie King of Detroit, wore a floral floor-length gown with a companion cape and added a corsage of silk white carnations to her ensemble as she helped greet some 250 guests at the reception which followed in the Romulus Progressive Club.

The new Mrs. Beresford is a graduate of Belleville High School and Harper Hospital School of Nursing. A past vice-president of the Downriver Nurses Association, she is currently an RN supervisor at Seaway Hospital in Trenton. Her husband graduated from Harren High School in New York and is employed at the Blue Max Restaurant in Detroit where the rehearsal dinner was held on July 6.

The newlyweds are making their home at 14800 Haggerty Rd., Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. JIM COSTAKIS
...Margaret Ann Cross

Cross-Costakis exchange vows in private ceremony

A small private ceremony in the bride's parent's Ypsilanti home was among the nuptial plans made, by Margaret Ann Cross and Jim Costakis.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Cross of Hillcrest Boulevard, Ypsilanti, formerly of Belleville, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Jonathan Cross, DDS. Her maid of honor was her sister, Andrea Cross, also of Ypsilanti.

Officiating the June 16 ceremony before 25 immediate family members and close friends was the Rev. Paul D. Cross, father of the bride and former pastor of the Belleville Presbyterian Church. Music for the double ring ceremony was by Joy Powers, the bride's sixth grade music teacher, who sang and played the autoharp.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Costakis of Grosse Pointe, asked a close friend, Ron Mallard of Grosse Pointe, to serve as his best man.

Dinner at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor was followed by a wedding reception at the Cross home. The newlyweds honeymooned in Cape Cod, before taking up residence in St. Clair Shores.

The new Mrs. Costakis is a graduate of Belleville High School and the University of Michigan, where she earned her RN and a bachelor of science degree. She is employed at Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe.

Her husband is a graduate of North High School, Grosse Pointe, and has a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan. He is employed by Holly Carburetor of Warren.

Seasonal accents

The excitement of fresh, spring flowers; the glory of a sun-bathed garden and the whispering of windswept fall leaves. All come and go with the changing of the seasons. Much like the changes going on outside, the interior of a home can reflect seasonal changes as well. Candle arrangements set up throughout the home or used as table centerpieces can bring the beauty of each season inside for enjoyment. Changing your decor to match the seasons doesn't have to be expensive. In fact, most arrangements can be done with existing accent pieces, combined with a few candles and a sprig of greenery.

The first thing to remember is that your candle arrangement should complement a room's color scheme. Darker colors of candles generally are used in the fall and winter, while lighter variations of the same colors are used in spring and summer. In the spring feature a table centerpiece with a light-colored 3-inch-diameter round candle. Place the candle in the middle of a large bowl and surround with spring flowers in a variety of pastel colors — yellow, pink, white. Place small votive candles in spring-colored glass containers around the centerpiece. In summer plants flourish, so show them off in your arrangements.

Hall collect diplomas

Andrea Price Hall is sporting a college degree these days after completing work on a bachelor of arts degree in communication arts from Oakland University in Rochester.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Price of Roscommon, formerly of Belleville, she graduated with departmental honors. Her husband Kenneth also graduated from Oakland University with departmental honors. He collected his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hall of Belleville. The couple is living in Jupiter, Fla., where he is employed by the Pratt-Whitney Co. of West Palm Beach.

The Prices also hosted Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Warner at their Roscommon home July 3-8. Mrs. (Kim) Warner, their daughter, was celebrating her 25th birthday.

While in the north country, the Warners also visited Mr. and Mrs. Grant Warner in Oscoda. Dennis's parents, as well as the young Mrs. Warner's stepgrandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ikens in Boyne City.

While in Boyne City a four generations picture was taken, with Roy Ikens, 88, Cletus Price, 62, Dennis Warner, 32, and Dennis Warner II, 2.

BEA BEA BENSON

The Explosive Blonde Bombshell", better known as Bea Bea Benson, is making them laugh, blush and even laugh some more during an appearance at the Royal Ascot Supper Club, located at 1200 Southfield Road, one block east of Fort Street, in Lincoln Park. A veteran entertainer, Miss Benson sings, dances, plays the piano and has been labeled as "the funniest gal" in show business by her critics. She has been described as a combination of Bob Hope, Don Rickles, Phyllis Diller and Rusty Warren. For information on Miss Benson performances at the club through the end of the month, call 386-1350.

Outdoor recreation abounds in state

Michigan is a four-season paradise surrounded by glistening waters with abundant natural and man-made attractions ideally suited to outdoor recreation.

With more than 11,000 inland lakes and four Great Lakes, Michigan appeals strongly to water sports enthusiasts. Few locations in the state are more than 15 minutes by car from a lake or river.

The inland water route stretching across the northern part of the Lower Peninsula between Lake Huron and Crooked Lake near Petoskey attracts many boaters. That 85-mile navigable waterway goes from Crooked Lake up the Crooked River, across Burt Lake, through Indian River, across Mullett Lake and up the Cheboygan River into Cheboygan.

The Au Sable River is a picturesque route, popular with canoeists and trout fishermen. Several dozen canoeists annually participate in the Au Sable River Canoe Marathon between Grayling and Oscoda. This year's marathon is July 27-28.

Michigan's largest inland lake is glacier-made, 31.3-square-mile Houghton Lake, which is popular with boaters and walleye and panfish anglers. Neighboring Higgins Lake is a lively summer resort and noted winter ice fishing area.

Mullett, Burt and Black lakes to the north are home for the state's largest fish—the sturgeon, which can weigh more than 100 lbs. Lakes Cadillac and Mitchell near Cadillac are renowned walleye and pike fishing locations.

About 34 state rivers, bays and lakes host salmon fishermen each summer and fall. Coho averaging 25 pounds and chinook weighing up to 40 pounds attract anglers.

Many of the state's approximately 150 waterfalls are viewed best by hikers. The Upper Peninsula has one of the world's most beautiful cataracts in Tahquamenon Falls, which is 200 feet wide and has a drop of more than 50 feet.

Camping enthusiasts will find some 70,000 campsites available in Michigan, with more than 36,000 located at private parks. The 72 state parks offer nearly 14,000 campsites with additional facilities at national and state forests and county, township and city parks.

Wilderness State Park near Mackinaw City is great for persons interested in rustic camping as is Hartwick Pines State Park near Grayling. Hartwick has a stand of virgin pines towering as high as 140 feet.

Migratory waterfowl and other wildlife help enhance the state's reputation as a hunter's paradise. More than 700,000 deer hunters annually venture into the woods for the Nov. 15 firearms opener. Another 81,000 bow and arrow enthusiasts find Michigan woods inviting hunting grounds for deer. Duck, grouse, pheasant, bear and turkey hunting also attract thousands of sportsmen.

In the winter, snowmobiles can travel on more than 3.7 million acres of state-managed forests, plus 2,300 miles of marked trails in state forests. In addition, there are 105,000 acres of state park and recreation lands open to snowmobiling.

It now is possible to travel 300 miles across the Upper Peninsula from Sault Ste. Marie into Wisconsin or 230 miles across Lower Michigan from Tawas City to Traverse City via groomed snowmobile trails.

Skiers can choose from 58 public areas in the state, including 24 in West Michigan, 12 in East Michigan, eight in Southeast Michigan and 14 in the Upper Peninsula.

Those seeking the solitude of forests and less traveled areas will find miles of marked and open cross-country ski trails.

Ann Arbor gets ready for Street Art Fair

What has a paper fish floating overhead, raku ceramics demonstrations below, and attracts 200,000 people every year?

The Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, held this year July 25-28 on South and East University streets in Ann Arbor.

The fair hours are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. July 25-27 and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 28.

Now entering its 20th year, this nationally known show began with 145 artists hanging their work on ropes strung between parking meters. The fair was such a success that it grew by leaps and bounds until a decision was made in 1963 to limit the number of spaces available to about 300.

A jurying process was set up to handpick the best of the many artists who applied. A second evaluation occurs on the street during the fair and determines which artists will be invited back. Each year, about 80 percent of the exhibitors return, leaving 30 to 60 openings for new artists.

More than 600 people apply for those openings sending slides of their paintings, sculptures, pottery, textiles, glassware and other work. The Art Fair Acceptance Committee, made up of artists who judge only their own field of expertise, selects the cream of the cream of the crop.

The fair also includes the work of invited groups of Ann Arbor senior citizens, local high school students and the Ann Arbor Potters Guild.

The art fair is sponsored by the Ann Arbor Street Fair Inc., with cooperation from the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, the South University Merchants Association, the University of Michigan and interested members of the community.

It is run by the Ann Arbor Street Fair Committee, which is made up of volunteers from each of the aforementioned groups. Some have been devoting their time to the fair since 1959, when the South University merchants first proposed the idea as a way to attract the public during Summer Bargain Days.

The fair still is held in conjunction with the summer sales, but it has gained a reputation of its own for professional artistic excellence.

The fish has become the symbol of the fair since the very first year. A merchant donated several Japanese paper fish, and they've been floating colorfully over the fair ever since.

Demonstrations by the artists are another attraction of the fair. Visitors can watch wood carvers, potters, spinners, metal sculptures and others as they work.

The Ann Arbor Street Art Fair guarantees something for everyone, as Ann Arborites mix with visitors from across the country, and the town gives itself over to this summer celebration of the arts.

Silent comedy films spotlight 'Good Ole Summertime Spow'

A "Good Ole Summertime Show," featuring theatre pipe organ music, a Buster Keaton silent comedy film and a sing-along has been planned by the Motor City Theatre Organ Society for presentation at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser near Grand River, on Aug. 3 at 2 and 8 p.m.

The program was booked at the request of Redford community groups who wanted some good "family-type" summer entertainment for area residents; the matinee is being presented particularly with senior citizens in mind.

Families and senior citizens also were kept in mind in planning the show's budget—advance tickets are only $2.50, while tickets bought at the door are $3.50.

The organist for the program will be Scott Smith, a Lansing resident. Smith is the staff organist at the Michigan Theatre in Lansing and has played programs for several chapters of the American Theatre Organ Society, as well as the Detroit Theatre Organ Club.

Audience members who went to the theatre in the 1930s and 40s should enjoy a special feature of the "Good Ole Summertime Show": Dish Day. In keeping with the "old-fashioned" feeling, at each performance a drawing will be held to give away two glassware sets, and certificates for tickets to other MCTOS shows.

The Redford Theatre has been part of the Redford community for more than 50 years. A few years ago, when the threat of either closing the house or turning it into a "porno palace" seemed imminent, the theatre was leased and subsequently purchased by the Motor City Theatre Organ Society. The group regularly presents programs featuring the theatre pipe organ and also runs a highly successful, bi-weekly series of "big-screen" family movies.

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society, Inc. is a non-profit, tax exempt club, a group of more than 400 area residents who are dedicated to the preservation of the theatre pipe organ and the fostering of its music. In addition to owning and operating the Redford Theatre in Detroit, the group owns the pipe organ in the Royal Oak Theatre, and maintains the organs in the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor, and The Punch and Judy in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Tickets for the "Good Ole Summertime Show" are available at the Redford Theatre box office, Masters Candies, 17340 Lahser, and by mail. A ticket order form may be obtained by writing to the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser, Detroit 48219.

Institute exhibit shows off contemporary art

Detroit Institute of Arts Curator Jay Belloli has traveled the United States and selected the work of six sculptors to illustrate what he believes is a new direction in contemporary art.

'Night Must Fall'

"Night Must Fall," a murder melodrama by Emyln Williams, opens next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Hilberry Theater for a 2-week run. Joyce Ramsay will play the part of Mrs. Bramson and Andrew Barnicle as Dan. For tickets and further information contact the Hilberry Theater box office at 577-2972. The theater is located at Cass and Hancock on the campus of Wayne State University in Detroit.

'Night Must Fall' set for Hilberry

"Night Must Fall," a murder melodrama by Emyln Williams, and David Mamet's prize-winning "American Buffalo," both open next Wednesday (Aug. 1) at 8:30 p.m. for a two-week run in the two theatres at the Hilberry.

The plays, both performed by members of the Hilberry Repertory Company, run concurrently, Wednesdays through Saturdays, Aug. 1-4 and 8-11. "Night Must Fall" is upstairs at the Hilberry. "American Buffalo" is in the Studio Theatre downstairs.

"Night Must Fall" was Emyln Williams' first playwrighting success and his first real success as an actor. He played Dan, the bellboy and chief murder suspect, to critical and popular acclaim in both London and New York during the mid-30s. Williams also is known as the author of "The Corn is Green," recently revived at Meadow Brook Theatre and on national television.

"American Buffalo" was first produced by the Goodman Theatre in Chicago in 1975. The New York Broadway production opened at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre in 1977. "American Buffalo" received both Obie and New York Drama Critics Circle awards for the Best American Play of 1977.

"Night Must Fall," a study in psychopathic homicide, is set in a lonely Essex household where a dead woman's body is found in the garden. Several household members and guests become suspected of murder, and every possible bit of terror is squeezed from the situation.

"American Buffalo" is set in a junk shop where three small-time crooks plan to burglarize the apartment of a coin collector who bought a valuable "Buffalo nickel" from the shop. Critic Jack Kroll praised Mamet's unusual ability "to create a formal and moral shape out of the undeleted expletives of our foul-mouthed time." The language in "American Buffalo," although a major part of the play's brilliance, makes it suitable for mature audiences only.

"Night Must Fall" is directed by Robert T. Hazzard, with set design by Blair Vaughn Anderson, costumes by Marilyn Renaud and lighting by Eric Insko.

"American Buffalo" is directed by Russell Smith with set and lighting by Garry Chopchian and costumes by Jackie Durbin.

Tickets are available at the Hilberry Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit 48202. Call 577-2972 for reservations.

The younger artists, a generation removed from Abstract Expressionists and Minimalists, reveal a new concern for recognizable image. In a variety of materials and forms, including tape and video, they explore fresh approaches to imagery and real objects.

The artists are Terry Allen of California, Michael Luchs and Michele Oka Doner of Michigan, Scott Burton and Dennis Oppenheim of New York and Jim Roche of Florida.

Exhibition of their work, "Image and Object in Contemporary Sculpture," is open at The Detroit Institute of Arts through Sept. 12. Organized by Belloli, the display includes works especially commissioned for Detroit showing.

The pieces, 29 in all, range from single, small objects to large environments, some embracing video, sound, narration, painted surfaces and sculptural forms. Installation will be throughout two floors of the museum's Ford (South) Wing.

Belloli noted: "For the first time, a great variety of styles and artistic attitudes have co-existed throughout the (current) decade without any one of them appearing to have predominant avant garde status."

The number of viable artistic modes, Belloli said, have combined with the de-emphasis of New York as America's artistic capitol and thus contributed to the resurgence of regional activity in the 1970s.

Terry Allen, a native of West Texas, will be represented by two environmental pieces, including sculpture, painting, sound and writing, from the "Ring," his extensive series based on the story of a disintegrating marriage of two writers and expressed with images from professional wrestling.

Scott Burton creates sculptural objects that also are pieces of furniture — chairs and tables that are meant to be used — and completely transforms the traditional relationship between "high" art and functional design.

Michele Oka Doner concentrates on natural forms — bones, seeds, roots and other objects — that, reinterpreted in clay and bronze, become ritual objects expressing the continuity of the cycle of life.

Michael Luchs devises sculptures of assembled scrap wood, wire, metal and other cast-off materials that are powerfully emotional images of rabbits, suffering and trapped.

Dennis Oppenheim, widely recognized for his earthworks, conceptual and body art and more recent interior environments, contributes two sculptures, both dealing with themes of change and transformation and of human destruction. His work also explores the role of art and the artist in our society.

Jim Roche is fascinated by religious and popular myths, or myths he creates himself. He deals with Christian, vampire, Texan and other symbols by assembling contemporary, often funky, kitsch materials into sculptures that are very funny and serious at the same time. He has constructed several pieces, including the imaginary beast, the "Texadilian," for the show.

Old time summer festival returns

Visitors to Greenfield Village know that there is no business like early American show business during Old Time Summer Festival — a daily event in which minstrels stroll, actors entertain and all the village is a stage.

The festival, which continues through Sept. 2, features vintage music and wit by the Greenfield Village Players, who don period costumes, portray historic personages, dance or simply sing the songs that were popular generations ago.

The Players — for the first time — present variety shows in Town Hall recalling the songs and entertainment of 1879 and 1929, commemorating, respectively, Thomas Edison's epoch-making invention of the incandescent lamp 100 years ago and the founding of the Edison Institute (popularly known as Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum) 50 years ago.

Nearby, Dixieland music plays, and portly Ben Franklin recites sage sayings and looks back on his life. An old-time medicine show peddles pratfalls and the miracle cure-all, Wizard Oil. Just down the street, Stephen Foster sings "Swanee" and some of his other compositions, and a new feature, Hermann the Great, revives original magic tricks of the 1890s.

A perennial feature is the Player's rendition of "The Trial," the story of a young woman in 1880 who takes her male employer to court in an attempt to get a job using a new-fangled machine — the typewriter.

Old methods of transportation — whether they are signalled by the clip-clop of horses or the whirr of early machinery — are popular attractions. Century-old antique locomotives carry visitors around the village perimeter. Model T rides recall the era of the horseless carriage, and the sternwheeler Suwanee captures the atmosphere of Mississippi riverboats. If these methods of locomotion seem a bit too advanced, there is always the old stand-by of our forefathers — the horse-drawn conveyances, including buggy, carriage and hay wagon.

There is an additional 50-cent charge for the Town Hall variety show, but no charge for other Old Time Summer Festival offerings beyond the regular village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children ages 6 through 12. Children under six are admitted free.

In addition, visitors have the opportunity of purchasing a special combination ticket for the village and adjacent Henry Ford Museum. The price is $6.75 for adults and $3.25 for children ages 6-12. Children under 6 are admitted free.

EMU players set for 'Private Lives'

"Private Lives," Noel Coward's intimate comedy based on the chance reunion of a divorced couple, is the 1979 summer production of the Eastern Michigan University Players and will be performed Friday through Sunday at 8 p.m. in Eastern's Quirk Auditorium.

Directed by Mitchell McElya, a professor in the department of speech and dramatic arts at EMU, the play is based on the antics of Elyot and Amanda who had previously been married to each other and are honeymooning at the same hotel with their new spouses. The action of the play unfolds when they meet by chance and rake in the love they once felt for each other.

The comedy, touted as "brilliant" by Newsweek and described as "gorgeous, dazzling and fantastically funny" by The New York Times, completed three successful seasons on Broadway.

Tickets for the EMU performances are $3.50 for general admission; EMU students will be admitted for $2.25. Tickets are available at the EMU box office. For ticket information, or to make a phone reservation, call the box office at (313) 487-1221.

STANDARD FEDERAL SAVINGS

Good news for all savers.

Standard Federal Savings offers a wide choice of savings plans, plus bonus gifts free or at big savings.

NEW 4-YEAR MONEY MARKET SAVINGS CERTIFICATE* MINIMUM BALANCE $100.00 INTEREST CONTINUOUSLY COMPOUNDED

This account pays interest at a rate based on the average 4-year yield for United States Treasury Securities as determined by the United States Department of the Treasury. The interest rate on 4-Year Money Market Certificates is determined monthly by the Treasury Department. The rate in effect on the day the certificate is opened will remain in effect for the full 4-year term. Interest is continuously compounded on the most favorable basis possible—giving you the highest rate available on these certificates— $\frac{1}{4}\%$ higher than banks can pay. In July, the rate is 7.85% per annum, and with continuous compounding the effective annual yield is 8.284%.

NEW! A HIGHER INTEREST RATE ON REGULAR PASSBOOK SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

The interest rate on the regular passbook savings account has been increased to $5\frac{1}{2}\%$, paid and compounded quarterly. No minimum deposits are required. Interest is paid from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. With quarterly compounding, the effective annual yield on this account is 5.614%. No bank can pay this high rate on regular passbook savings.

26-WEEK MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATES* MINIMUM BALANCE $10,000.00

The interest rate of this certificate is determined by the average auction rate (on a discount basis) for 26-week Treasury Bills. Federal regulations prohibit all financial institutions from compounding interest during the term of a 26-Week Money Market Certificate. If retained in the account, interest is compounded at the time of renewal. The interest rate on 26-Week Money Market Certificates is determined weekly. The rate in effect on the day the certificate is opened is the rate in effect for the full 26-week term. Call 643-9583 to obtain the current rate.

$100,000.00 SAVINGS CERTIFICATE*

This certificate has terms ranging from 30 days to 5 years with interest rates quoted by Standard Federal Savings on a daily basis. The rate established at the time an account is opened is the rate in effect for the full term of the certificate. Interest may be added to this account and compounded quarterly, or you may elect to receive your interest by check. Call 643-9562 for the current rates.

125 challenge 2-time champ at Dun Rovin

Piscopink to defend golf crown

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

Nearly 100 golfers will face a new challenge in the long and lush Dun Rovin golf course as swingers for five cities chase championship trophies in the annual 1979 City Championship Golf Tournament.

But the main obstacle remains in the form of sweet-swinging Tom Piscopink of Wayne who has captured the last two titles and also won three straight Wayne city titles and the Patrolman Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy. The 5-foot-7, 160-pound "Mighty Mite" of area golfing, who is always the last in line when it comes to entering the annual classic, usually finishes in front of the pack.

The mad scramble for area golf supremacy by local linksmen will take place this Saturday and Sunday at Dun Rovin Golf Course, located at 16377 Haggerty Road, between Five and Six Mile Roads in Plymouth.

City Championships are held simultaneously for golfers from Wayne, Westland, Canton, Inkster and Garden City during the annual summer classic, with the lowest 36-hole total taking the over-all championship trophy.

Medalists from each of the four cities will also get first-place trophies and the top three in each community will take home handsome hardware.

Providing the test this year will be the layout at Dun Rovin, a long, wooded 6,850 yard, par 72-course.

"The condition of our course is excellent," said Rich Cummins, owner of the course. "We don't take a back seat to any course in the matter of condition. This is the best it has been in, since I bought the golf course 16 years ago."

"And I am delighted to host the City Golf Championships and our course will furnish a tough, fair test to the golfers," Cummins said.

Other city champions last year included Rick Francis of Canton with a 144 total, Terry Bielecki of Garden City with 145, Angelo Garfole of Inkster with 146 and Murray Brooks of Westland whose 148 took honors in the tournament's largest community.

In case of a tie for any of the first three places, a "sudden death" playoff system will determine the winner of the particular trophy.

Cummins pointed out that golfers in this year's tourney, which will be played at Dun Rovin for the first time, will face a series of long, tough par-3 holes.

"All our par three's are tough," Cummins stressed, "but number 18 is probably the hardest."

The wind-up hole is 185 yards long and the fairway is punctuated by a large pond approximately half-way between tee and green.

The toughest par 4 hole is number 1, a lengthy 465-yard opener that catches many golfers off guard starting out. "Everyone better come ready to play from the opening tee-off," Cummins said, "or they can find themselves in instant trouble."

Cummins said he planted 600 trees when he bought the course 16 years ago and many of the trees have since died from Dutch Elm disease. However, a multitude still remains to barricade the greens from errant shots.

Other holes listed as very tough by the owner are No. 11, a par 5 test whose fairway cuts through heavy trees; No. 17, 575 long straight yards to test the heavy hitters; and the number two handicap hole, the 7th, which doglegs slightly left through trees.

Bill Hawley, athletic director at Wayne Memorial High School, is serving as tourney director again. It is the seventh year that Hawley has taken on the sometimes controversial always exciting position.

In case of dispute on rules, competitors are urged to discuss any clarification with him.

The tournament is annually sponsored by The Associated Newspapers and the parks and recreation departments of the five cities involved.

The low five scorers from each of the cities also have an additional award. They will have earned the right to compete in the Michigan Parks and Recreation Association's state championships to be staged sometime next month. (Parks and recreation officials will furnish additional information about the state tournament later on.)

Only bona fide residents of a city may represent that city at the state tournament, it should be noted.

"From looking over the entry blanks," Hawley said, "this tournament will be an excellent one. Most of those who have played in it over the years are back again. It just goes to show the popularity of this thing."

Hawley also pointed out the importance "of arriving on time for tee-offs."

"In the past, and it'll probably happen again, some players are a couple of minutes late and that screws up the foursomes."

"Please, if humanly possible, show up a couple of minutes early so that we don't have to jockey the foursomes around. We have received excellent cooperation from Dun Rovin and we appreciate it very much. We can show our appreciation by being early to tee off and play at a reasonably good speed."

Tee off times are listed into today's edition. If for some reason - typographical or human - there is an error and the competitor's name has been omitted, please contact Sports Editor Tom Mooradian at 729-4000 before Friday 5 p.m.

The best way to reach Dun Rovin Golf Course is to take I-275 north to Six Mile Road exit, turn west half-mile to Haggerty Road, then left on Haggerty Road one block to the golf course.

The Sports Meridian

The old and the new meet

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Bob King, bent with age - he'll never tell you how old he is - crept into the office. You know it's time for our annual golf tournament when he drops into these offices.

"Hell, Tom, I was one of the first to enter your golf tournament," Mr. King says. And he really is "the king" and the "dean" when it comes to playing in these annual City Championship Golf Classics. "There's no way I'll miss your tournament, you know that."

Scholarly-looking, slim (he says it's because he's out on the golf course so much), King has slowed down these past few years, but don't be foolish to wager any bets on the course with him. It seems the golf club has a strange, mysterious way of bringing back the years into King's body.

"I remember when Rog first started this thing some 20 years ago," King reminisced. "Now, speaking of a slow mover, that Rog was something, wasn't he?"

King was referring to Rog Turner, the man I inherited this job from. Turner is responsible for this annual mess that brings together some 125 amateur male golfers for the purpose of deciding city championships for Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and Inkster.

Rog, never noted for working up a sweat, personified all that was good in this business. He got smart - he left the cold environs of Michigan for Florida long before the engery crises came along.

King and some 124 golfers will be at Dun Rovin for our annual tournament which gets underway at 10 a.m. on Saturday and continues the following day with the finals.

That Tom Piscopink can cause a sports writer more gray hairs than anyone I know. The two-time champ did it again - got his entry blank in here just before the deadline on Friday. The sports people around here were not surprised, after all, that's Tom's modus operandi. And how can you knock a winner?

Though he says he hasn't been "out there as much as he'd like to," watch out for Piscopink on the course. He's my favorite to repeat. He uses the tournament to celebrate his birthday which usually falls the same week of our tournament.

And Jack Nelson, who is the pro at Dun Rovin, says the course is in excellent shape and reiterated what he said a few weeks ago: "Please tell your golfers that we can't allow spectators on the golf course during competition. We're happy to have this tournament, and for what I have been reading about it, it is surely one of the biggest of its kind."

"Therefore, we would like to stress that no spectators will be allowed on the course."

I'm sure our golfers will understand.

Oh, yes, in case of rain, the first round will be played on Sunday. But, everyone knows that the weatherman always cooperates for our tournament. No way is he going to spoil things for us.

If he should get in a nasty mood and let it pour on Saturday, then the first round will be played on Sunday and the finals will be held the following week.

But that has never happened to this tournament. Excuse me, it did. Just once. And once is enough.

Hodges at mat camp

Westlander Kenny Hodges is currently attending the United States Olympic Training Center at Squaw Valley, California, participating in a wrestling camp.

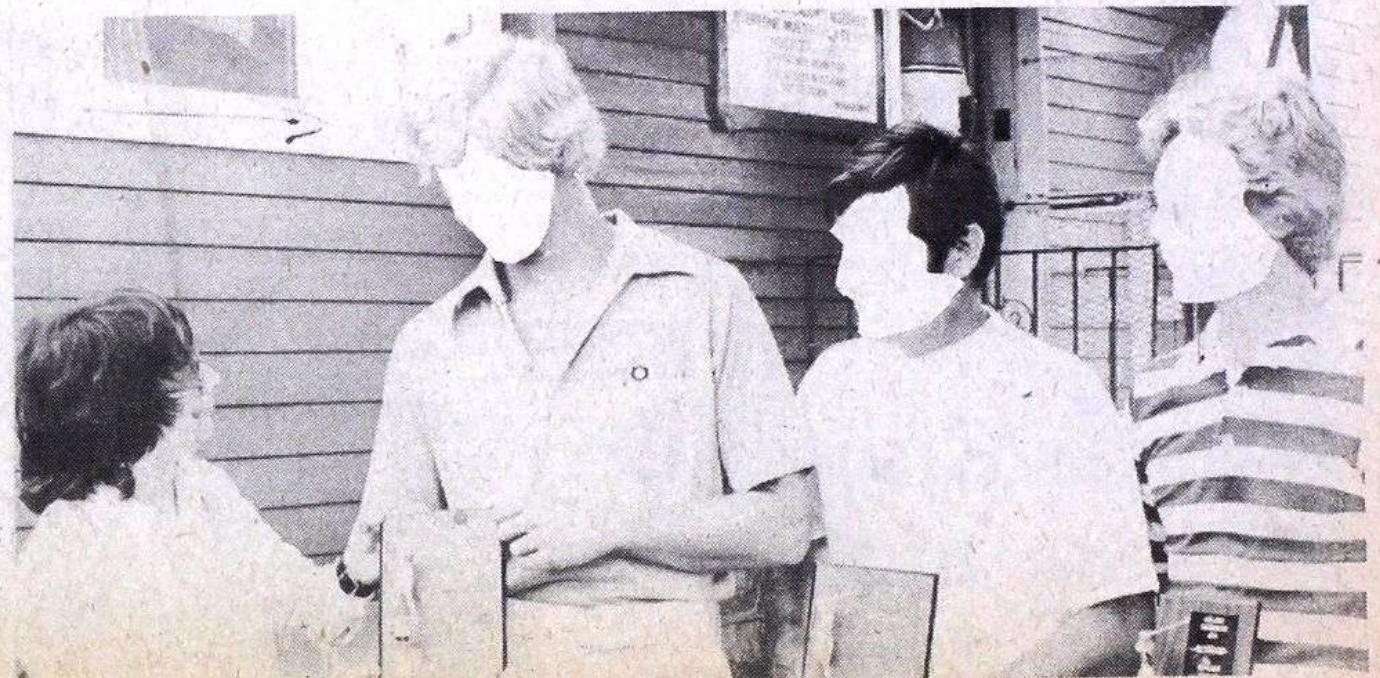

The USOTC at Squaw Valley is the first of four to six regional training sites planned for operation in the United States.

Its purpose is to aid the development of this country's amateur athletes by providing food, lodging, training facilities, medical assistance and sports medicine testing to the athletes and their coaching staffs at no cost.

Since opening in June of 1977, the USOTC at Squaw Valley has accommodated thousands of amateur athletes, representing almost every Olympic and Pan American sport.

In addition to providing centralized locations for athletes to train and exchange knowledge, the training centers are foreseen as sites for international and national competitions.

In general, the training center concept is aimed at easing the financial strain for amateur athletes and their families while providing the finest opportunity available for development of amateur athletics within the scope of the United States Olympics Committee Charter.

Berean is readying for summer cage camp

JIM REINEBACH

Though most of us are still thinking baseball, and the up-and-coming football season, basketball is on the mind of the Berean Baptist Church in Belleville.

And for a good reason. The church group will have on hand between the dates of August 6 through August 10 Pastor Jim Reinebach who also happens to be an all-stater from Illinois and who presently is with the Iowa State University varsity club.

Pastor Reinebach will be conducting Berean Baptist Church's second annual Basketball Camp at the church's Belleville site, 6889 Belleville Rd.

There will be a lot of basketball fundamentals, of course. But there will also be instructions on Christian principles of living and sportsmanship.

Two hour sessions will be held for boys ages 8-12 at 9:30 a.m., and ages 13-17 at 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Admission is free.

Campers may register by telephoning 697-7150. You can also telephone 697-0484 for further information.

Studio Lounge wins Major softball crown

It's all over in the Westland Major Division men's softball title race. League-leading Studio Lounge swamped the Disciples 33-5 for its 14th win in 15 starts to wrap up the 1979 conference championship.

With a couple of mop-up games remaining, Studio will use them and the time to prepare for the playoffs and the city championship.

Pat Kelly belted two over-the-fence homers and Jerry Jeravella connected for one roundtripper to pace Studio's 36-hit attack on losing pitcher Rob McGuire. Kelly finished the night with six hits and five runs batted in, while Jeravella had five hits, plus a triple, and four RBIs. Studio's Charlie Petrillo chipped in with four hits and knocked in three runs. Tom Wilmot and Dennis James scored three times for the champs.

Dennis Rogowski, the winning pitcher, gave up 13 hits, two each to Don Justice, Larry Beard and Wade Evans. McGuire got his margin of satisfaction when he drilled one over the fence for a three-run homer.

In the duel for second place, Hiway held off Jamies' 12-11 to oust their rival from the runner-up berth and hang on to it all alone.

Jamies, trailing after it took a slim 4-3 lead in the first inning, made a run for it in the last inning when they scored four runs, but fell short. Hiway got to loser Tony Pilarski for six runs in the third inning, then fought off their foes.

Dave Conlin laced a homer over the fence and had a single and double, good for four RBIs. Teammates John Marmul and Dennis Finrock each had four hits. Three of Marmul's safeties went for doubles.

Steve Patterson earned the decision. Patterson and Pilarski gave up the same number of hits - 18 each - and Bob Goodlow bagged the lone homer for the losers. He had three RBIs. Dick Saylor sliced four singles, while Vern Westerlund slammed a pair of singles and a double.

It was Hiway's 12th win in 15 starts. The loss dipped Jamies' record to 11-4.

Dearborn Real Estate and Joe Thomas remained deadlocked in fourth place. Each has 10-5 records. Dearborn picked up its 10th victory at the expense of Leaseway, 24-5. Winning pitcher Jeff Carter served up 13 hits, including three to Mark

Williams and two apiece to Rich Rushlow and Dave Winkler.

Joe Kadlec was charged with the loss. He was hit hard in the first inning when the real estate people scored 11 times, then cashed in for eight more in the second inning. For all purposes the game was over then. Steve Wilson accounted for four hits, including a homer and four RBIs. Don Thomas also banged out four hits, three of those were doubles, and teammate Keith Drake hammered out four singles.

In the only other Major Division game, Abbey Roadhouse erupted for 11 runs in the third inning to subdue P & P Distributors 21-8 for their sixth win in 16 starts. Winning pitcher Dave Graves also had a big day at the plate where he smacked a triple and three singles for three runs batted in. The Wolfes - Rick and Wally - had three and two hits, respectively. Rick blasted one of losing pitcher, Dennis Neidy's pitches out of the park.

Graves also gave up a homer and three hits to Vince Porcelli who knocked in three of P & P's eight runs. Dave Eads and Jeff Yoshikawa each had two hits.

J & D Auto lets undefeated Studio slip from its hands

J & D Auto got its second shot at Studio Lounge's untarnished 10-0 record and missed its proverbial golden opportunity to scramble the Westland Women's Softball title race.

The third-place J & D contingent blew leads of 1-0 and 5-4 before bowing to unbeaten Studio Lounge 9-5.

Winning pitcher Sharon Turflinger finished with a two hitter - giving up singles to Debbie Junk and Shelly Arner, but she had her problems finding the strike zone. Ms. Turflinger allowed five J & D players to reach base on walks.

Meanwhile Arner was tagged for a total of 11 hits with Mary Traynor and Sharon Winkler each connecting for two. Jackie Randall doubled in a run and also scored for the winners.

In other games, Bev's Girls rallied for six runs in the third inning and hung on to edge sixth-place Rocco's 9-8 for their sixth victory in 10 starts.

LuAnn's Churches's grand slam homer triggered Bev's six-run third inning. She also doubled off of losing hurler Cindy Mobley. Donna Reed and Colleen Dittmar each had run-scoring singles for the winners.

Master Craft pulls off rare triple play

Master Craft added injury to hurt when it pulled off a rare triple play to cap a 16-11 softball victory over Krugs's in the Van Buren Township Recreation women's League.

Krugs came alive in the last inning and had scored five runs before a grounder to Cindy Edmonds who touched third, then whirled the ball to second baseman Debby Lazara for the second out and a peg to first baseman Elise Eberhardt squelched the rally.

It was the first triple play of the season in the league.

Master Craft scored nine runs in the fourth inning and appeared well on its way to an easy victory when Krugs's decided it was time to play. Krugs replied with four runs in its fourth and struck for five in the sixth before the triple play took the wind out of its sails.

County Mounties dispelled last place Players Lounge's hopes of finding their way into the victory column with a onesided 18-5 triumph. The Players' have lost 10 in-a-row. It was a close game, though, up to the fifth when the Mounties struck for six runs to make it a 10-2 margin. They picked up eight more in the last inning.

Aileen Michno led the 21-hit assault on loser Lynn Dupek who gave up a triple, double and a couple of singles to the Mounties' slugger. Pam Coleman clubbed four hits, including a triple and double and also had three RBIs. Dawn Lalonde laced two triples and a single for four RBIs.

Top-ranked boxers at Ann Arbor

Some of the top young boxing talent in the nation will go on display in Ann Arbor on Thursday when members of the United States boxing team clash in the ring.

In the main event of a 12-bout card, the number two rated middleweight in the country, Monte Oswald of Bay City, will take on John Kessling of Indianapolis.

Also on the card is Mickey Womanack of Ann Arbor who is the 1979 Golden Gloves state champion. His opponent is Jeffrey Curry, a Detroit.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. fight, which will be staged at Roma Hall of Ann Arbor, 2196 W. Stadium Blvd., may be purchased at the door or by telephoning NO8-7296, NO8-6915, 668-9183, or 662-5001.

Ms.Eberhardt had an excellent day at the plate as she slammed a pair of homers and collected two singles to count six runs batted in. Teammate Kathy Hitch and Debby Lazara split six hits while winning pitcher Barb Kalasz helped her cause with a pair of two-baggers and a single. She knocked in three runs.

Meanwhile, Zantop Flyers chalked up their third win of the second at the expense of Rains & Blocks, 14-7, as winning pitcher Jan McLain turned in with a nine-hitter. Cathy Hoeft belted a circuit clout and singled, Edna Rice had three singles and Debbie Zaborowski sliced a single and double. Cindy Rice rapped a single and triple and had three runs batted in for the losers.

Winner Jean Hamilton was tagged for eight hits, two each by Barb Wilcox and Cathy Lewis. Kay McCory's single produced two runs.

Jamies' went on a run-scoring spree in the fourth inning to destroy Hair Affair 37-4 as winning pitcher Tammy Mauno twirled a five hitter. Ms. Mauno served up a homer to Carol Pfeiffer and a triple to Julie Johnson.

Sue Thompson, the loser, had her problems with Darlene Pierson who knocked in six runs thanks to a homer, double and a pair of singles. Teammate Judy Griwki checked in with five hits including a double and triple and had four runs batted in, and Pat Peterson wound up with four hits, including a double and three RBIs.

Edna Rice was charged with the loss. Her nemesis was Tina Terrell and Barb Slocumb who each had three hits including homers. Cheryl Barker latched on to four hits, including a pair of doubles. Cindy Carquill drilled three singles for the winners.

Meanwhile, over in the men's league, Bigs & Wags struck for a run in the bottom of the seventh to edge Burhop's 4-3 as winning pitcher Pops O'Harris twirled an eight-hitter. Wegerbauer stroked a pair of singles for the winners. Benny Collins got two hits off of O'Harris while Rick Spangler belted a single and double and drove in two runs.

Bigs & Wags also were awarded a forfeit victory when Appollo was a 'no-show' for their scheduled game.

Warriors, Johnny's are out of reach

Leaving a cloud of dust on their title trail, the Westland Warriors and Johnny's 76 are out of reach and danger in the Westland Men's Softball League.

Johnny's has a two-game cushion and a 10-0 record to protect it from second place Quo Vadis (8-2) in the Minor "Red" Division, while the Warriors are three-games up on runner-up, Ken's Standard (8-3) and have all but clinched the championship.

Over in the Red Division, Johnny's struck for five runs in the third inning, added four more in the first en route to a 15-6 triumph over Bruce's Towing and pitcher Les Warden who delivered up 16 hits to the undefeated pacesetters. Bob Morin belted two over-the-fence homers, doubled and singled to count six of Johnny's RBIs. Teammate John Bates clubbed a triple and a pair of singles while Rick Bergerson also homered and doubled.

Extra Point Bar is riding the crest of a 10-game losing streak.

In an excellently-played game between two "also-rans", Golden Spike Lounge came up with three big ones in the sixth to top County Mounties 11-9. The victory was the lounge's second in nine starts. The mounties have won one of 10.

Mark Miller received credit for the win as he tossed a 12 hitter. Dick Slayton latched on to three doubles and three RBIs, while Bill Healey socked a pair of singles and Bill Durkee checked in with a double and triple for the losers.

Leading the 12-hit Golden Spike assault on loser Roy Blackmore was Courtney Graham who chased home four runs on a homer, double and single. Jerry Delaney and Dan

Winner Don Yanik gave up 12 hits, two apiece to Dale Jurcisin, Greg Coulton and Jerry Madden.

Quo Vadis kept its slim - very slim - title hopes alive with a 12-7 victory over a 4-6 Westland Florist team. The winners, trailing 5-1 after three innings, exploded for 10 runs in the top of the fourth to put this one away and hand Jerry Mijal the loss.

Mijal and winner Mark Bjerk each gave up 13 hits. Tom Corom, Ken Strickler and Keith Morton each had two for Quo Vadis. Bob Kozma, Jim Mijal and Rick Samuels drilled two apiece for the losers.

In other Red Division action, Fiesta Lanes came out on top of a 15-3 count with the Golden Spike Lounge. Again, both teams had an equal number hits (15), but Fiesta came through with the key ones thanks to Mike Cieliczka who put one over-the-fence and had two singles. Teammates Dave Mars and Mark Gaskill split four singles off of loser Mark Miller.

Paul Campbell was tagged for three hits apiece by Jerry Delaney, Dan Gatenanca and Jim Green.

Six-run rally wins for WAOA

Barring catastrophe, WAOA has sewed up the Westland Parks and Recreation's Community Organizational League softball championship.

WAOA's title rights came in the form of a 13-9 victory over the Post Office which lifted the winners into sole possession of first place. They're now 8-1 on the season, while the postal employees are 7-2. If the league-leaders can win their final games, they'll own the first place trophy.

In their showdown for first place, the two teams exchanged three-runs in the first inning. But WAOA moved ahead 7-3 with a run in the second and three in the third. They clinched it with a six-run outburst in the fourth. Though losing pitcher Cliff Orr managed to gather "goose eggs" in the fifth and sixth innings, his teammates responded with only five runs in the last two innings - not enough to make up the difference.

Bob Kaump got credit for the victory. But the Post Office made him sweat. The losers pounded out 14 hits, including three by John Molinen who had a pair of doubles and scored twice. Jim Troneur and Terry Martin saw their two hits wasted.

Leading the WAOA hitting attack against Orr were Randy Clark and Rick Cieciek who each had three hits. Cieciek sent one of Orr's pitches out of the park and also had three RBIs. Phil Martinez turned in with a double and single.

The Dad's Athletic Club scored in every inning and rapped loser Tony Bassett for 17 hits en route to a 17-11 victory over JC Blue Chips. Mike Sigler homered and finished up with three hits and three runs batted in for the winners. Teammates Mark Paz and Dave Gorshek divided up six singles evenly. Bob Bailey slammed three hits, including a double off of winner Hank Blayer who also gave up two hits - a single and double to Mike Mushett and Ken Fruit.

Glass strikes gold in Grand Rapids

Joe Glass, who is one of the finer 155-pound high school wrestlers in the state, captured a gold medal at the Grand Rapids "Furniture City Classic" Wrestling Tournament held at Ottawa Hills High School last week.

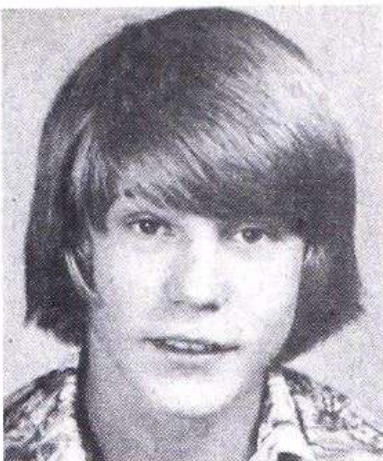

Glass, a member of Coach John Wood's varsity wrestling team at Wayne Memorial, placed first in the 155-pound class. He had to beat out teammate Lou Toarmina to reach the round-robin tournament finals.

Wayne also placed third in the 180-pound class thanks to Rob Spada's performance and ex-All-Area wrestler, Gary Pate, earned a third place medal at 125½-pounds in the Open Division.

Three members of the Spartan Age-Group Wrestling Club also earned recognition at the Indianapolis Tech Central Zone National Tournament staged recently. In the 11-12 age bracket, Edward Fowler finished fourth, while Ken Coleman, was sixth in the 13-14 age group. James York, making his wrestling debut this year, placed sixth in the 8-and-under group.

The Spartans also were represented by Jason Wiebeck and James Utt at the tournament.

Hofbrau stuns Burghuff

Burghuff Bar had a chance to snuff out Hofbrau's dreams for a title this season, but it just could not muster enough hitting power in their duel for Class A supremacy in Wayne.

Blowing a 5-0 lead in the fourth inning, Burghuff was forced to hand over a share of first place to their arch-rivals after losing a close 9-6 decision. Both teams are now 12-4. Unless someone upsets the frontrunners, they'll meet again in a playoff to decide who'll get the first place trophy.

Hofbrau put to good use 16 hits to win the key battle. The war is yet to be won, however. Ray Fox and Bill Hughes played key roles in Hofbrau's victory. Fox blasted a homer and socked two singles for three runs batted in off of loser Joe Kadlec who also gave up three hits to Hughes. Hughes also counted three RBIs.

Dennis Cowell overcame a shaky start and earned the victory. Of his 11 hits allowed, two went to Dean Minton who knocked in three runs.

The Broncos hung on to win a 11-10 cliffhanger from fourth place Paul's Sporting Goods which rallied in the late innings to tie the score. A last of

Wayne women's softball title race goes down to wire

Entering the final week of competition, league-leading J & D Auto Parts has a twiggy-shape edge over arch-rival, the Bee Jays, in the Wayne Women's Softball League.

J & D's are atop of the league thanks to a 13-1 over-all record, but the Bee Jays sit a rung below because they have played one game less. They're 12-1. It appears that a showdown or playoff is in order to settle their title differences.

The Bee Jays almost received some unexpected help from third place (10-3) Tastee Freeze who lost a 4-3 thriller to the league-leaders. Tastee Freeze came up with two runs in the top of the seventh to keep the outcome of the game in doubt, but J & D pitcher Mary Martell settled down and got the final outs.

Mary Brewis connected for two hits, both singles, off of losing pitcher Rene Burnie.

J & D meanwhile lived it up at the expense of eighth place Dino's Pizzeria (3-9) who was blanked on Ms. Martell's two-hitter, 17-zip. Mary Brewis, Linda Burton and Jane Stein each had two hits off of loser, Barkowski, who served up a homer to Ms. Stein.

The Bee Jays also whitewashed Dino's as Mary Porter fashioned a two-hitter in a 16-0 triumph.

A four-run top of the fifth rally lifted Ernie's Towing to a close 13-12 victory over Burghuff's. Lisa Barth wasted a seven-hit pitching performance and sustained the loss. Most of the scoring came in the first inning as Ernie's put three runs on the board in the first inning, then lost the lead in that frame when Burghuff answered with four of its own runs. Ernie's came back and scored six times in the next inning, and Burghuff's again replied with four, making it a 9-8 ballgame.

Denise Aniel laced two doubles off of Ms. Barth and teammates Cheryl Mayeran and Karen Wojewski each had two hits apiece.

Winning pitcher Martha Callegari gave up a total of 11 hits, two each to Collen Gilbert, Tammy Rice and Terry Lapere.

J & D's pounded out 19 hits, four of those by Sheila Burton, to destroy Jake's Lounge 30-1. Joan Joise had a double and a pair of singles and Barb Sanford tripled and connected for two singles to pace the hitting assault on Jane Sens. Ms. Joise knocked in five runs and Ms. Burton had seven RBIs.

Winning pitcher Martel lost her bid for a shutout when Jake's got an unearned run in the second inning. The game was called in the fourth because of the "mercy rule." (The rule stipulates that when one team has gained a 10-run advantage over its opponent the game ends in that inning.)

Tastee Freeze scored in every inning to overwhelm Ernie's 17-1 as Wendy Reynolds wielded a hot bat. She slammed two homers and a triple, driving in five of Tastee Freeze's runs. Beth Tracy had a double and triple, while Cheryl Farho latched on to three singles. Gail Hathorne got two hits off of loser, Callegari. Winning pitcher, Ms. Tracy, gave up a total of four hits, two of those going to the losing pitcher.

Two teams tied for 1st in Class C

While six of the teams have faded from the title picture, Tri-City Carpet and the Pirates continue to swing it out for the Wayne Class C men's softball championship.

Both Tri-City and the Pirates have 10-2 won-lost records and the two will soon meet to determine the 1979 championship.

Meanwhile, in the middle of the standings is bulging like an over-blown balloon. There are at least three teams, including the Possums, Wayne Jaycees and Sambos who hope to finish in the third place spot.

The Jaycees came alive in the fifth inning and surprised losing pitcher Bill Buckner by scoring seven runs, enough to win a 7-2 decision over Sambos. Sambos got to winner, Gary Kowalske, for two runs in the bottom of the third on run-scoring singles by Tom Sass and Issue Labinino.

Buckner gave up a total of 11 hits, two each to Brady Rice, Tom Simmons and Kowalske.

Last inning rally saves Class B softball leader

Village Bar makes it 13 victories in a row

Village Bar's 13th victory came the hard way. Tied at 7-all going into the last inning, the undefeated Class B men's softball leaders struck for three crucial runs to edge B-B Softball, 10-7, to kept its record untarnished. It was a battle and struggle all the way for Village Bar who underestimated — the downfall of many a champ — the sixth place B-B's. The Brewis brothers - Mike and Dick - split up the pitching chores, while Rick and Billy Brewis got the job done at the plate. Rick rapped a pair of singles off of losing pitcher Tom Tompkins, while Bill's single and double drove in three runs. Kevin Marle helped the undefeated barmen with three singles and two RBIs, while Tom Schnieder had a double and triple. Dean Ayers' three hits accounted for four of the B-B runs and Bob Ronup latched on to three singles for the losers whose record dipped to 6-9 on the year. Pittman's tightened its hold on second place with a lopsided 28-4 victory over B-B as pitcher Ted Rize scattered nine hits, two to John Schuster, to chalk up the win.

Mark Lipinski cracked a homer, single and drove in two runs off of loser, Tompkins. Terry Patterson had three hits, including a round-tripper, while Ray Pittman and Rize split six hits between them. Massey-Ferguson unleashed a 28-hit attack to subdue last place Daring, 25-7, as winning pitcher Don Manderville held the losers to 10 hits. Bill Raickovich picked up four hits, including a homer off of loser, Jeff Jirkovsky. Raickovich had five RBIs, one less than teammate Joe Dombock who connected for a triple, double and a pair of singles. Rick Szpond had four singles.

Tom Mandole homered off of Manderville who also gave up three hits to Tom Roberts. The Rangers rallied for two runs in the last of the seventh and came up short, losing a 10-7 decision to the Explorers. The two teams exchanged two runs in the first inning and three runs in the third, but a five-run spurt by the Explorers put them ahead for good. Keith Owens collected two hits for the winners, while Dan Docusen and Jerry Jodlowsky split four singles between them for the Rangers. Pittman's came from behind to beat Massey's 6-3 as Rize fired a nine hitter. He gave up three hits to Bill Raickovich and two to Rick Szond. A five-run fourth inning helped the Explorers dispose of Rod Ruddy's 8-2 as pitcher Ken Eck tossed a 9-hitter. Jerry Allen and Marv Leayn had run-scoring singles for the losers. Losing pitcher Bill Coleman had his problems with Jim Davis who chased home two runs with a triple and double. Eck and Kevin Rawling had three hits each. Daring Auto Parts is probably wondering about this time what it has to do to win one. Up 12-0 over the Rangers, it blew a 17-13 game. The Rangers tilted the scoreboard in their favor for six runs in the fourth, added seven more in the fifth and won it with a four-run spree in the sixth. John Petrie had an excellent day against winning pitcher Bob Teague who served up a homer and a pair of singles to the Daring slugger. Teague also drove in three runs. Tom Roberts belted a couple of singles and a double and also had three RBIs, while teammate Mike Reighardt had two singles and a three-bagger. Loser Jeff Jirkovsky was tagged for the loss and 17 hits. Teague helped his cause with four RBIs on a homer and a double. Dave Mackey also found the range and smacked a pair of doubles and a single and drove in three runs. In the only other game, the Explorers parlayed 17 hits and Eck's nine-hit pitching into an 8-2 victory over Rod Ruddy's. Eck and Kevin Rawling each had three singles while Davis drove in two runs on a double and single. Mathes collected two singles off of loser Coleman.

Hofbrau

(Continued from 3rd Sports) the seventh Broncos' run was the difference. Dan McGowan, Jim Verona, Jim Gibson and Curt Wiitanen each had two hits off of losing hurler Denny Cook who gave up 16 safeties. Meanwhile, Rick Goodlow and Bob Hobbs drove home two runs apiece with two hits each off of winner, Wiitanen, who also served up two singles to Hobbs. In the only other Class A matchup, Van Born Auto Wrecking plowed into Unistrut and drove off with an easy 17-7 victory. Losing pitcher Jeff Carter gave up a triple and three singles to Keith Drake. Dan Sowa also checked in with four hits, while Rick Messler and Don Thomas split six singles between them. Jeff Hogan drilled a three-run homer and Chuck Truskowski had a single and double.

Warriors, Johnny undefeated

Title wars go down to the last games

(Continued from 2nd Sports) Canciali each had two hits for the winners. In the meantime, the Warriors had a hard time convincing last place Local 25 that the Westlanders are a first place team. The union people stayed with the undefeated Warriors 4-all for two innings before wining a 10-5 ballgame. The Warriors got two hits and two RBIs from John Hughes and losing pitcher Jake Hamblin also gave up a single and double to Greg Nagle. Winning hurler Cal Clough yielded his share of hits, 10 in all with Mike Walton collecting two of them. Hamblin and Dave Raitzel each had run-producing singles. Ken Standard averted an upset thanks to a four-run spurt in the last of the seventh which lifted the second place team to a slim 10-9 win over third-place Jake's Lounge. Jake's erased a 3-0 deficit with a seven-run surge in the fourth inning, but three Ken Standardruns in the bottom of that inning, plus those decisive runs in the seventh enabled Ken's to pull it out. Cliff Davidson stroked the game winning sacrifice fly and had three RBIs to go with his two singles. Teammate Rick Stanton connected for two doubles and two RBIs, while Dave Treacher had a single and triple. Loser Corky Hayes gave up 10 hits, three more than winner Bob Fallove who delivered a three-run homer to Gary Miller. Both Jack Fowler and Benny Maggard had two hits off of Fallove. In other Blue Division action, Jon's Goodtime Bar exploded for 11 runs in the second inning to put down Local 25, 22-9, as Terry Taft and Cliff Williamson drilled homers for the winners. Williamson, who had three hits for the evening, knocked in five runs, and Taft brought home four runs on four hits. Mike Paciocco also had a roundtripper for one of his three hits. He chased home four runs. Taft, the winner, gave up three singles apiece to Ken Kunkle and Mike Walton, while Mark Klechae had two hits. Dave Reitzel digested the loss. Interstate Transmission put six runs on the board in the third inning and scored another seven runs in the fifth to rout J. C. Penney 15-5. Winning pitcher Rich Powell scattered 10 hits, including three two each to Barry Crandle and Jeff Prough. Ed Lucious socked a two-run homer off of Powell. Loser Ron Matinski gave up a circuit clout and single to Bob Baker who knocked in four runs. Terry Johnson laced three singles and had three RBIs and Chet Pickens checked in with a single and double. Over in the White Division, Westland Party kept its half-game edge over All-Star Sports thanks to a close 7-6 victory over Hamm's Bears. The party store has an 8-1 record, while All-Stars is breathing down the pacesetter's necks (7-1). Bill Fuller, the winner, and Tony Kiersche, the loser each gave up 12 hits. Fuller served Mike McMananon, Dave Johns, and Kiersche each two hits, while the Hamm's pitcher found Pat Dunn's bat to hot to silence. Dunn cashed in two roundtrippers for five RBIs. Mates Jim Dedes and Ray Brewer scored twice after getting aboard on a pair of singles. All-Stars also got a scare from Jamies who blew a 4-3 seventh inning lead in a 5-4 loss to the runner-up. The sporting goods men came up with the two decisive runs in the last of the seventh. Gary Swain got credit for the victory as he twirled a seven-hitter. Jeff Folding, Scotty Fowler and Dan Shannon each connected for two hits off of him. One of Shannon's hits went for a double. Shannon was the loser. He was

Run-a-thon

(Continued from 3rd Sports) men will run in pairs with each pair running two laps around the park at a time. Each lap equals approximately 2.7 miles. Head Cross Country and Track Coach Don Simms estimates that the team as a whole will cover between 400 to 500 miles in the 24-hour miles. Donations may be made as a pledge per mile amount or in contribution form. Proceeds garnered by the WSU Cross Country team will be used for team expenses in the upcoming season which begins September 8 at Eastern Michigan. Sponsor forms and further information may be obtained by telephoning the Wayne State Athletic Department at 313-577-4280.

Merit Changes Smoking.

'Enriched Flavor'™ cigarette sparks whole new taste era in low tar smoking.

Not too long ago, smokers believed that if a cigarette had less tar, it had less taste too. Low tar cigarettes simply didn't taste very good.

Then along came MERIT and a whole new taste idea called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And in three short years, smoking changed:

1. No other new cigarette in the last 20 years has attracted so many smokers as quickly as MERIT!
2. MERIT has swept past over 50 other brands in record time.
3. MERIT is continuing to attract high tar smokers—the most taste-conscious smokers of all!

It's clear: MERIT taste is changing attitudes toward low tar smoking.

Congratulations

Jaycees pick Beeny for IMPACT award

Bob Beeny, of Wayne, has been selected as one of the Top Five IMPACT Award Winners for the year by the Michigan Jaycees. The IMPACT (Involved in MICHIGAN Priorities at a Critical Time) Awards are given to those Jaycees that are active in community activities other than Jaycee involvement. Over 200 Jaycees were nominated prior to the final selection of the Top Five. The Award was handed out at the recent Jaycees State Convention in Lansing. Beeny is a past President of the Wayne Jaycees. He will be serving the Michigan Jaycees as their Governmental Involvement State Chairman during the coming year. He is shown here being congratulated by Alex Arends, President of the Michigan Jaycees upon the presentation of the IMPACT Award.

KEN WARFIELD

Warfield reelected to MFCA

Fire Chief Ken Warfield, of Wayne, was re-elected to the executive board of the Michigan Fire Chief's Association which held its 54th annual conference last week in Midland. Chief Warfield, 39, will serve as one of 10 trustees to the board whose concerns are to work for legislation in the area of fire prevention and resolve the state's fire problems. "It's quite an honor," said Chief Warfield, commenting upon retaining a seat on the executive board. "It is also a challenge. Also, as a member of the executive board it helps the city keep in touch with the latest in the way of fire prevention and news." The Michigan Fire Chiefs Association is a 300-member strong group which meets annually. However, the executive board gets together each month to discuss current issues and problems.

Inkster IGAC golf tourney attracts 124

Some 124 golfers turned out for the 20th annual Open Amateur Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Inkster Golf and Athletic Club. The tournament was held under perfect conditions at Green Oaks Golf Course in Ypsilanti. "I feel I can sincerely say for all of those who competed and took part in this tournament that it was one of the best, if not the best tournament we have stage," said Robert King, president of the IGAC. "We have some excellent scores and exciting flight competitions." Here are the results of the tournament: In the men's championship flight, Ypsilanti's Dick Wonder shot a 69 for the first round, then turned in a 74 for the second 18-holes and walked away with a 143 and the medalist honors. One stroke back was Joe Sabol who had a 70-74 for a 144 total. Marc Diugman turned in a 147 to earn the third place trophy in that flight. In the first flight, Eddie Simmons's 156(79-77) stood up as the low score and he came away with the first place trophy. Roosevelt Jones was breathing down the winner's neck all the way as he shot an 80 the first day and came back for a 77 to finish one-stroke back for 157. Also with a 157, was Norman Collier who lost a "sudden death" playoff to Jones for second best honors. Meanwhile, A.C. Burk had a two-stroke cushion over Harrison Bone to capture first place honors in the second flight. Burk toured the first 18 holes with an 85, then posted a 76 for a 161 total. Bone finished with a 84 first round and wound up with a 79 for a grand total of 163. One stroke back in third place was Drull Williams who put together rounds of 84 and 80. Roy Valley Jr. topped the field in the third flight as he carded a 176. He struggled through the first 18 with a 91, then shaved six strokes off that total for an 85 for the second 18 to finish with a 176. One stroke behind was Leonard Jackson who had a 90-87 for a 177 total. George McKinnie's 178 stood up for the third place trophy. Eddie Smith shot 98 and 94 for a 192 to win the top prize in the fourth flight. Philip Woods was two strokes back with a 194 and Bruce Cooks had a 197 for third place. Detroit Noams Jenkins came up with an 85 for her first 18-holes, had problems the second round and turned in a 95 and finished with a total 180, best for the evening. Karen Peeks put on a display that few will forget. A pro, Ms. Peeks burned up the course as she fired an 80 for the first round, then shot a n 82 for a 162 total, the best in her class. Lavinia Wingo was runner-up with a 184 thanks to rounds of 90 and 94 while Thelma Cowens finished third with 186. Both Ms. Wingo and Cowens competed in the championship flight. In the first flight, Willie M. Nash turned a 98 for the first round and scored a 94 for the second round to finish with a 192, the best in that group. Ada Well was runner-up with 195 and Pat Darden had a 198. Other scores included: SECOND FLIGHT — 1. Grace Wallace(97-104)-201; 2. Narma Nethers(102-113)-215 and 3. Kathy Mihett,(106-121)-227. Over in the senior men's division, Chris Hairston of Detroit had a one-over-par 73 for the first round and carded an 80 for the second and won medalist honors with a 153. J.T. Johnson had his troubles after shooting a 76 for the first 18. He pulled in with an 81 for a 157 total and second place. Thorton Williams was in third place with 159. Richard Lett's 166(84-82) topped the first flight field. C.L. Wesley was in second place with a 174 and one stroke back was William Warren with a 175. Over in the Junior Division, Eric Williams had a 227 to earn the first place trophy. There were also awarded presented to the best female and male golfers. Lavinia Wingo had the best fashion for women's and "The Jose" retained his reputation as the best dressed male golfer.

A Stitch in Time Saves...

if you take action now . . . because nine months of school are just around the corner! No other annual event brings about as significant a change in the lives of families as does the beginning of school.

Part of that change involves new needs, not for just the youngsters, but their parents as well. Things which were not needed at the close of school last year are needed now just three months later. For others there is a need to sell. Many items simply are not used any longer.

If back to school finds you needing to buy or needing to sell, use the medium of Classified advertising in this newspaper to accomplish your objective. It's easy to use, low in cost and effective. And NOW is the time to use it.

ECONOMY WITH OUR O.K.

IT'S OKONOMY

IT'S ANOTHER WAY CHATHAM
REDUCES YOUR FOOD COSTS

CHATHAM'S OKONOMY BRAND PRODUCTS...

1. SAVE YOU MONEY

We've eliminated the frills, the fancy packaging, costly promotions and fancy grades, to bring you the lowest price possible on good nutritional food.

2. ARE WHOLESOME

There's no compromising of nutritional values in Chatham's Okonomy brand. All items are a good standard grade and provide wholesome good eating. It's economy - with our OK.

3. ARE GUARANTEED

The regular Chatham money-back guarantee stands behind every Okonomy product because Chatham's laboratories and quality control team checks every shipment.
